Culpability - Government officials at all levels knowingly took part in illegal activities in a decades-long campaign to which Presidents. Cabioet members and members of Congress "clearly contributed." Presidents from Franklin D. Roosevelt ooward, and their aides, have requested or accepted from the F.B.l. politically useful information about opponents and critics.

Scope-The F.B.I., C.I.A., I.R.S., Army Intelligence and other agencies created files on more than half a million United States citizens, opened nearly 250,000 pieces of first-class mail, momitored millions of telegrams and overseas telephone calls, listed 26,000 citizens for detention in e national emergency and subjected many privata citizens to secret harassment and programs designed to disrupt their lives and destroy their reputations.

Targets-Groups and individuals subjected to the secret iotelligence gathering programs were from all parts of the political and social spectrum. At times the intelligence network focused on the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Ku Klux Klan, anti-Vietnam war groups, the John Birch Society and the feminist movement, Individual targets included the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, congressmen, secators and, at one point, the mail of former Presldeot Richard M. Nixon.

Reforms-The committee proposed sharply restricting Investigative activities of the Internal Revenue Service and military intelligence. It urged a ban on wirataps, mail opeoings and unauthorized entries by the Central lotelligence Agency. All domestic noncriminal intelligence work would be vested in the F.B.I. and monitored by Congress.

Madrid Announces a Voting Timetable SUMME

Referendum Is Set for October and General Election Next Year

By HENRY GINIGER Special to The New York Times MADRID, April 28—Prime Minister Carlos Arlas Navarro

announced tonight that a referendum on proposed constitutional changes would be held in October in preparation for general elections at the beginning of next year.

But he rejected opposition lemands for an immediate break with the past and for a new constitution that would sweep away the institutions of the late Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Addressing the nation on radio and television, the Prime Minister called on Parliament, one of the principal centers of conservative opposition to reform to complete work on legislation in time to allow King Juan Carlos I to submit the proposed changes in the parliamentary system and in the manner of succession to the Need Voter Approval The last two bills represent constitutional changes and would require voter approval.

Under the proposed changes the upper house, the Seoate, would be a corporative chamber with Franco-appointed holdovers of the old regime's Nabracing political body, ap-pointees of the King and other members whom Mr. Arias did members whom Mr. Arias did oot specify. Presumably they would represent economic and professional groups and possib-ity any regional entities that may be set up. Municipal elec-tions would follow the legisla-tive elections.

Mr. Arias denied charges that he was dragging his feet with such a program. His timetable does not conform with that outlined by a Liberal wing of the Government, beaded by Foreign Minister José María de Areilza who had called for a referen-dum in June and elections in the fall. Sources in the Ministry of the Interior said that one major obstacle to such a quick vote was the oeed to bring vo-ter rolls up to date.

Two Major Issues

The Prime Minister offered oo timetable for the resolution of two major issues in Spain. These are reform of the present state-cootrolled syndicates to create free trade unions and the create free trade unions and the reform of regions to allow for local autonomy, notably in Catalonia and the Basque country. He said that the Government would wait for proposals from the syndicate organization on how it intended to reform itself and from special Governmentappointed commissions that are now studying the Catalonian and Basque questions.

Mr. Arias had not spoken di

In the foothills, stately clusters of Tien Shan spruce give way to the knobby apple trees from which Alma-Ata derives its name, "alma" being the Kazakh word for "apple." North of the city, the land flattens into the vast steppes of Central Asia, creating a locality of con-trasts akin to that of Denver.

A deceptive natural beauty graces Alma-Ata, for the same geography has also same geography has also threatened the city's existence. The relatively young Tien Shan is prone to earthquakes. And the waters tumbling down from the mountain glaciers in summer have triggered gigantic mudslides that have descended occasionally with disastrous consequences. sequences.

The city's population, now grown to 800,000; has earned to cope with the unstable environment. A set of controversial explosions a decade ago threw up a mighty protective dam that is still being doggedly im-proved. And earthquake-proof construction ionovations are giving Alma-Ata a high-rise look that was ooce coosidered foolhardy.

Buildings of 12 Stories

"The most important prob-lem is our seismic zone," explained the city's architect, Adambek K. Kapanov. The last quake, a moderate one, was experienced a little more than a year ago. But earth-quakes in 1887 and 1911 leveled much of the city, and even three decades ago, only single-story wood houses were put up.

Now the average height of oew buildings is five-stories, with a few built to 12 stories. This is done in part by securing the buildings on reinforced concrete pilings, adding iron gridwork. pilings, adding iron gridwork up to window level and u. ing lightweight prefabricated wall panels.

Perhaps the boldest venture is a 25-story hotel now heing constructed to withstand a severe earthquake of 8 points on a 12-point scale. A single. monolithic core sustains the building, which is built in an oval configuration using sliding form construction for added streogth.

Cool and hot.

Sweet with a beat.

These exciting slices of summer should remind you of dancing under the stars. In the tropics. Especially of drums: you know how you feel them down to your finger-tips?

And you're on target when you think tropical today. Because our dark little strokes of drama have a deep, hot history. They're copies of old prints from the island of Java in the Far East (Not far, in fact, from The Philippines, where we photographed our current fashion magazine.)

Picture them now, decorating you, while you sway.through your own tropical summer.

And you won't have to travel to the Far East to find it. Remember, the fahrenheit flew to 96 last week.

But there's more news here than primitive, bright-on-black prints.

Their creators, a California company called Vandor Ltd., made sure there's pure fashion in every line.

The shirred, off-your-shoulders neckline in our big sketch is important. So is the flounced, mid-calf skirt. This one's deep red flowers printed on black cotton.

Now, nobody said you had to go dancing in these beauties. Our buyer of Young Expression Dresses on three calls them sun-dresses.

Conclusion: they're all-day-all-night summer delights.

By the way, these prints are named "Bouboudima", a word we can't find in the fattest dictionary in the store.

Another conclusion:

cal to The New York Times UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 28 — The United States reaffirmed today that it "will never accept" an equation of Zionism with racism

"Ziomsm is not racism," said Ziomsm is not racism, sauthe chief. American delegate, William W. Scranton, addressing the Economic and Social Council during a debate on the current United Nations Decade for Action to Combat Racism and Racial Discrimination, Zionism, Mr. Scranton con-tended, "is a justifiable and understandable manifestation of oational feeling oo the part of a people entitled to a home-land, whose claim to a homeland was recognized by the United Nations almost 30 years ago."

The United States delegate spoke as radical Arab and Conmunist countries were pressing to link the United Nations projsystem of separation of races in South Africa and Rhodesia, to an anti-Zionism reso lution adopted last fall by the General Assembly by a 72-to-35 vote, with 32 abstentions.

The resolution condemned Zionism as "a form of raciso United States declared then that it would never recognize the

Today, Mr. Scranton called the anti-Zionism resolution "un-wise, unjust and completely un-acceptable."

'A View Strongly Held'

He told the 54-country Council that the rejection of the text was not the policy of a partic-ular Administration at a partic-ular moment, but "a view strongly held throughout the Congress, the executive branch and the nation."

Mr. Scranton affirmed that the United States felt so strongly about the anti-Zionism resolution that it had decided it could no longer participate in the United Nations program against racism and could not attend a planned aptiracism conference in Ghana in 1978 unless all references to the resolution were dropped.

During the racism debate in the Council, which opened last week, Arab and Communist speakers brought up the Zion ism issue in connection with what they said was increased collaboration between Israel and South Africa.

Jordan's chief delegate, Sherif A. Hamid Sharaf, who spoke after Mr. Scranton, said that the anti-Zionişm resolution was "a step in the right direc spoke of an "inseparable link" between the aspirations of the hlack majorities in South Africa and Rhodesia and those of the Palestinians.

pecial to The New York Times BEIRUT, Lebanoo, April 28— With the Lebanese Parliament scheduled to choose a oew President in three days a bank er who has the backing of Syria and major right-wing fac-tions here announced his candidacy today.

The announcement, by Elias Sarkis, the head of the Central Bank, came during a day of scattered shelling and sniper fire and after a night filled with gunfire. The violence, despite the latest cease-fire raised doubts whether the members of Parliament would assemble on Saturday to choose a successor to Presideot Suleiman Franjieh.

Tonight, the left-of-center alliance headed by Kamal Jum-hlat, the Moslem Druse chief-tain and leader of the Progressive Socialist Party, demanded that the special session be post-poned to lift what it called "foreign pressures" on the election. The language of the statement left little doubt that Mr. Jumhlat and his allies were referring to Syria.

The statement asserted that the leftists would do their "utmost to prevent the arrival of a new presideot" who, it con-tended, would continue what it called a conspiracy against the Lebanese leftists and their Palestinian allies.

Mr. Sarkis is a S1-year-old hand man of the late President Fuad Chehah after the 1958 election and lost to Mr. Fran-jieh in the 1970 election by one

The case had come to the five-judge Supreme Court Panel .00 Appeals from a half-dozen lower courts around India. The lower court judge in each case had ruled that the right of habeas corpus could not be suspended, even in an emergency. The Government appealed.

In all, the cases involved 43 prisoners, including four Members of Parliament, who were seeking court hearings.

Lawyers said that if the ruling had gooe against the Government, hundreds and per-haps thousands of other peti-tions would have been filed to challenge imprisonment orders. But they said that the verdict in favor of the Government's stand was likely to block any further legal challeoge at least

Question of Human Rights At the heart of the case was the question of whether the sweeping emergency powers granted by the Iodian Coostitution to the Government su-perseded fundamental human rights. The Government argued that they did.

.: "A citizeo is barred from agitating for any right during the emergency," Attorney General Niren De maintained during the arguments last winter, "There oo personal rights law for the time being."

Under the Constitution, the constitution of the section roughly similar to the American Bill of Rights is sus-pended when the President invokes the emergency provi-sions, as he did last June 26, in the face of what the Government said was a widespread in-

But the lawyers for the pris-oners had argued that some rights, like the right to personal liberty, could oot be suspended by another section of the Con-stitution since they had not been granted by the Constitution in the first place.

"Sanctity of life and liberty was not something new when the Constitution was drafted," Justice Khanna declared today accepting this argument in his ininority view. "The priociple that no one shall be deprived of his liberty without the au-thority of law was not the gift of the Constitutioo. It existed before the coming into force of the Constitution."

Stress on Emergency

But in that interpretation he was overruled by his fellow judges, who held that the right to a court hearing on the sus-pension of personal liberty was "cooferred" by the Constitution rather than just protected by

This appeal was border war.

At least one diplomat saw in inst. giants has hampered the cool. This date seemed to rebut today's overture an attempt to the present policies of Mao Tseder talks with the Soviet Union.

Soviet conciliation.

It was the first significant development in the chilly rela-tions between the two countries since Peking's release of a Soviet helicopter crew four months ago. The return of the three soldiers, held for 21 months after their helicopter was seized inside China, took Soviet officials by surprise but did not improve the climate.

Todak's overture was conched in a lengthy article on Soviet-Chinese relations in the Communist party newspaper Pravda. It was signed by I. Aleksandrov, a pseudonym used by Kremiin officials for policy statements.

Chinese Claim Reduced

The article attracted particular attention because it conceded that the Chinese territorial claim involved 33,000 square kilometers (about 13,000 square miles) of Soviet territory. As recently as December, the Soviet press had cited a more in-flated figure of 1.5 million square kilometers (600,000 square miles).

No specific concessions were advanced in the article, which continued to refer to China's "groundless claims." Pravda further made clear that Moscow still would not accept Peking's prior conditions for negotiations—an acknowledgement that the territory was in dis-pute and a pullback of troops from both sides of the frontier. The border talks, which began in October 1969, have been suspended since last May.

The language and timing of the article suggested to some diplomats that the Russians were trying to encourage moderates in Peking to push for Puppet Col. Pham Duy Tat, commander of the ranger force on the Second Military Region, made the following declaration to us about the puppet units withdrawing from the Central Highlands: "On the afternoon of March 14, while I was going to various units to re-examine the defense situation in Pleiku, I received a call from tha military region headquarters telling me to attend a meet-ing at the offica of Pham Van Phu, commander of the Second Corps. Phu said be had just come back from a meetmg in Cam Ranh with Neuven Van Thieu, Tran Thien Khiem, Cao Van Vien and Dang Van Quang. Here is Phu's account of the meeting. "Thieu asked Vien: Do we still bave reserve forces to reinforce the Second Corps?

Vien replied: 'No.' "Thieu then turned to Phu, asking: 'If there are no rein-forcement troops, how long will you be able to defend the area?' Phu answered: 'I can defend for a mouth on the condition that I will get maximum air support, suffi-cient airborne matériel, weapons, ammunition and reinforcement troops so as to make up for nur recent beavy losses. I will stay in Pleiku to fight and I will die there.'

"Thieu said: These condi-tions cannot be met, and the P.L.A.F. [People's Liberation Army Forces] is conducting violent attacks; therefore we must withdraw from Kontum and Pleiku so as to preserve our forces and use our troops to defend the Delta and the coastal area.

Attack on Da Nang Ordered On March 26 I cabled

Brother Hoang Van Thai, deputy chief of the general staff, requesting him to order the Second Army Corps to bring its long-range artillery immediately to within strik-ing distance of the airfield and port of Da Nang, urgently mount a siege on this city and boldly advance into this city to destroy all the enemy forces massing there. If the plan was achieved, we would be able to faciliate future operations on the Nam Bo battlefield. I asked the Central Military Party Commit-tee to send Brother Le Trong Tan, deputy chief of the gen-eral staff, to supervise the Second Army Corps' attack on Da Nang to Insure victory.

The Second Army Corps operating oo the Tri-thien front was composed of the 304th, 324th and 325th Divisions and a number of technical units.

On March 27 the Central Military Party Committee decided to set up the Quang Dai Front Command with Comrade Chu Huy Man as political commissar and Comrade Le Trong Tan as commander. Comrade Tan boarded a helicopter in Hanoi to fly to Gio Linh.

To attack Da Nang, it was necessary to set up the com-mand headquarters west no Da Nang. Upon his arrival in Quang Tri, Comrade Tan took a road east of the Truong Son Range to go to A Luci, where he proceeded to an area west of Da Nang. While en route, he stopped at a geoeral telephone switchboard station to contact the various units. Thus, the command and the party committee of the Quang Dai front had not yet met each

Beginning on March 26 Da Nang City was in a chaotic situation. Our forces quickly advanced to close in on the city. The enemy was forced to abandon his plan to bold up in Da Nang and began using Boeing-727'a and beli-copters to evacuate some American advisers and part of the puppet forces. The puppet troops fought among one another for places on the plane, causing noisy, brawling scenes at the airfield. Some of them were run over by taxiing aircraft on the runway.

Yes, the commission does regulate railroads, but only 43 miles of tracks. It also regulates trucking and buses in the state. But its most important job is regulating the state's powerful oil and na-tural gas industry. By setting production rates and issuing permits, the commission has exercised the power of Arab shelks for decades before the sheiks even thought about it.

Texas produces more energy than any other state, about one-third of the nation's domestic supply. Virtually all of it is oil and na-tural gas, and through years of setting production rates the commission, in effect, has set prices. Court rulings on natural gas, the increase in foreign crude imports, the Arab oil embargo and Federal controls have all eroded that power.

For four years, the com-mission has set monthly pro-duction rates for Texas wells at 100 percent of their capa-city. If it could think of a good reason, however, the commission could shut down

Texas production overnight. The three seats on the commission have long been considered by the oil industry and its political friends to be much too important to be left to the whims of voters. The commissioners are elected to staggered six-year terms. To thwart the ballot box, a retiring commissioner has always stepped down early, allowing the Governor to appoint a successor who then faces voters with the advantages of an incumbent. industry has then lavished upon him more than enough money to win sub-

Oil Corporation had admitted passing money-filled envelopes to every commissioner except one since the early 1960's.

This year, however, Com-missioner Ben Ramsey, 72 years old, reportedly got angry with Gov. Dolph Briscoe and refused to retire early. So, far the first time in 36 years, there is no incumbent to run against, and outsiders see their first chance to break up the industry-government cabal.

What most Americans, including most Texas, do not realize is that Texas is also the nation's largest consumer of energy. According to 1973 of energy. According to 1975 figures, the state consumed seven million billion British thermal units of energy to fuel its giant petrochemical complexes, its burgeoning industries and its electrical generators. That compares with the pulling british compares with the property of the compares with 5.2 million billion BTU's con-sumed by California, and 4.5 million billion consumed by

Consumers' Interests

Texas is also tops in wasting energy, using natural gas, the most precious fuel, to produce 95 percent of the state's electricity. Gas supplies, however, are dwindling and prices have soured. Con-sumer utility bills have risen 500 percent in some Texas cities. At the same time, the price of Texas natural gas sold out of the state is controlled by the Federal Power Commission at artificially low prices, meaning Texans are paying three or four times more for gas found unsay, New Yorkers are paying

Mr. Denton, a 36-yearold liberal State Representative, bought an old bus on Easter Sunday, recruited the singing Reynolds Sisters and the New Oso Band, and went on the road, hoping to hit 58 cities in 10 days with tunes like "The Billion Dollar Ripoff" and "The Ballad of Lane Denton."

In 1938, a four salesman named W. Lee O'Daniel, called Pappy, got Bob Wills, a singer, and the Light Crust Doughboys to do the same thing, and he was elected Governor over 12 opponents. Mr. Denton, who has been endorsed by Ralph Nader and Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, hopes to repeat that feat.

Mr. O'Rourke, a 29-year old Houston lawyer, has had the most impact on the commission during the race. He was endorsed as the most ef-fective contender by the editor of The Texas Observer, the influential liberal magazine. After investigating, he published a two-volume, 30-page "O'Rourke Report" charging that the Railroad Commission had allowed a natural gas company to engage in gas banking deals that cost consumers $130,000 per day in higher utility bills.

The company is the Lo-Vaca Gathering Company, a subsidiary of Coastal States Gas Corporation, which is -nearly bankrupt because in order to get long-term con-tracts to sell gas to several cities, it promised chesp gas that it could not supply. Its board chalman is a flamboyant 51 year-old Houston so-cialite, Oscar Wyatt. Since the O'Rourke report, most of

STUDY PANEL SEES VICTORY OVER ILLS

Medical Group Says Power to Prevent or Control Disease Is in Offing

By HAROLD M. SCHMECK Jr.

WASHINGTON, April 28—Science has at last reached the stage at which the capacity to conquer human disease is within long-term reach, a top-level panel says in a report to be presented Friday to the President and Congress.

Quoting one of its own subpanels of expert advisers, the President's Biomedical Research Panel says that human beings have within reach the capacity to cootrol or prevent human disease.

"Although this may seem an overly optimistic forecast," says the report, "it is, in fact, a realistic practical appraisal of the long-term future. "The document says there do not apper to be any "impenetrable, incomprehensible diseases" any longer and that this, in itself, represents a major advance for biomedical science that has occurred only within the last 25

The panel says it subscribes to this view of the future, but that moch effort will be required to bring it to reality.

The full realization of this

"The full realization of this vision will come only if the effort is steadfast, if support is stable, and if Congress, the executive branch and the American people exhibit both patience and perseverance," say sthe report.

The panel of seven men, most of them leading officers of major medical schools, was established through act of Congress almost two years ago to revei the Federal effort in blomedical research and to recommend policy for the future. In its final report, due Friday, the panel says several things that are unlikely to be welcome to either the President or Congress.

It says, for example, that the President's Office of Management and Budget has made too many science policy decisions in recent yraes without strong scientific guidance.

The report describes as a myth the view that there is often undue delay in making the benefits of scientific discoveries available to the health care of the natioo. One of the reasons Congress moved to establish the panel was to seek ways of overcoming that presumed lag.

Studying 25 different case histories of medical scientific innovation, the panel found no significant evidence of preventable delay between the time of ocmpletion of the scientific development and the time its applications were available to medical practice.

It said there were frequent and substantical delays between the first medical applications of the discovery and the widespread use of those applications by practicing physicians and also delays in acceptance of new technology by pa-

"This time lag is beyond the control of the research community," said the report.

The panel praised the accomplishments of the National Institutes of Health, the Federal Government's main agency for the conduct and support of biomedical research. It said more than 30 percent of medical research in universities and similar centers was supported by Federal funds. The main source of funding is the National Institutes of Health, which have tutes of Health, which have now a total budget of $2 billion. The institutes also conduct a major in-house research program of their own, an effort that the panel said should be maintained and protected. The report said the institutes had been increasingly unable to compete with outside institutions for highly skilled scientists and administrators because Federal salaries have been held down so severely.

It noted that because of quirks in the law there are 141 staff iembers of the National Cancer Institute who have higher salaries than the figure of somewhat more than $37,000 a year that is the maximim that can be paid the director of that institute.

institute.

The anel said it supported the Congressional priority judgement that in 1971 led to a major expansion in the research effort against cancer, The report said the cancer program, administered by the National Cancer Institute, has served the nation's interest well. It said the special permanent three-member panel of advisers to the President on cancer should be expanded and given a comparable top advisory rola for all of biomedical research.

The report was sharply criti-

The report was sharply critical of the tight research budgets of the National Institute of Mental Health in recent years, saying that if inflation is taken into account that institute's research spending has declined by 40 percent over the last de-

The report also said it would he unwise to give the National Institutes of Health major responsibilities for the delivery of health care and that the institutes' role in assisting regulatory agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency and the Food and Drug Administration should be held within reasonable limits to avoid hampering the prime role of the institutes as the nation's major agencies for biomedical re-

You'll discover that you've never heard music sound so majestic.

Over the years you'll also discover that in an inflationary economy, no other consumer product retains its value as well as a superlative component system like this one.

Buying a quality system at Tech Hifi is a no-risk investment. Because every system we sell, regardless of price, is backed by our 14 Customer Protection Policies. They guarantee your satisfaction, in writing.

Here's What $2125 Can Buy at Tech.

The purchase price of our featured system this week is paid back to you in years of enjoyment. And since shrewd peopla know a good deal when they see one, you'll appreciate the fact that the price of these components, together in a system is-substantially below what you'd have to pay for them separately.

You'll get two JBL "Studio Monitor" loudspeakers (included at the regular price of $318 each). JBL L100 speakers put out more earpleasing sound than any other bookshelf-size speakers we know. Their 12-inch longthrow woofers are combined with front-mounted ducts for toe-tingling bass response. Separate midrange drivers provide plenty of midrange "presence". And two level controls located beneath the acoustically-transparent sculptured foam grillcovers allow you to adjust the midrange presence, and high frequency brilliance, just the way you like to hear them.

Amplification in this system is amply provided by the SAE Mark XXXIB stereo power amplifier. It delivers 50 watts minimum RMS per channel into the 8 ohm JBL loudspeakers across tha entire 20 to 20,000 Hz. range of audible sounds, with no more than 0.1% total harmonic distortion.

The SAE Mark XXX stereo preamplifier serves as an extremely flexible control center for this system. More importantly though, it adds virtually no distortion to the audio signal passing through it (total harmonic and intermodulation distortion never exceeds 0.03%!).

With its digital readout (LED)

City University Union Agrees To Forgo Increases in Salaries

By EMANUEL PERLMUTTER

sionals at the City University of New York announced a tentative contract settlement yesterday in which the workers agreed to forgo salary increases and to defer until July 1, 1978, two weeks pay and nine months of increment payments.

The settlement is designed to save a total of $14.7 million of the $32 million in spring-semester savings that had been demanded by the city. Both Dr. Robert J. Kibbee, the university shook, the president of the Professional Staff Congress, expressed the hope that an additional $20 million would be contributed by the city and state to help meet the deficit.

But Deputy Mayor, John E. Zuccotti, immeditely dashed any hope that the city would be pack up the deficit.

The contract will be recommended by the negotiators for approval by the Board of Higher Education, the members of the Professional Staff Congress, expressed the hope that an additional $20 million would be contributed by the city and state to help meet the deficit.

Casio's new BIOLATOR is not only a superb 4-function calculator, you can also have the fun of computing your physical, emotional and intellectual states for any date according to the biorhythm life cycle theory.

As a calculator, the BIOLATOR offers:

- Big, bright green 8-digit display
- · Four functions with full floating decimal
- Constant for +, -, x and -
- Computes day of the week for any date (1901-1999)
- Computes day intervals between any two dates in the 20th Century.

In addition, the BIOLATOR makes it easy to calculate the 3 biorhythm cycles of life-physical, sensitivity (emotional) and intellectual-which, according to the theory, help determine your condition on a given date. For example:

LeFrak Says He Will Cut New York City Operation

By JOSEPH P. FRIED

Citing an unfavorable "political and economic climate" for builders and owners in New York City, Samuel J. LeFrak, the city's biggest private landlord, said yesterday that his organization was "phasing out" lits acitivities in this city.

This means, he said, that his organization will not undertake new construction and rehabilitation beyond three specific projects he was already committed to, and that he planned how limited Federal housing mitted to, and that he planned how limited Federal housin to transfer the Lefrak Organi-subsidies are to be apportione

In an attempt to reform part of the complex system, Commissioner Walsh issued a directive in January 1975 that building plans should be examined essentially for compliance with zoning resolutions and regulations relating to egress and fire protection.

Unless specifically requested, plans for structural and mechanical systems no longer had to be thoroughly re-viewed. As a result, plan ex-aminers in the Buildings Department oow need only four or five hours to examine plans for a major development rather than three days or more, according to Mr.

Furthermore, last September, the Department of Buildings changed its pro-cedures for minor alterations. Permits for such al-terations can now be issued in about half an hour after payments of fees and filing of proofs of insurance. Under past practice, it took as loog as a few weeks, Mr.

Walsh said.
While these changes simplified and shortened the application process, they did oot deal with inspection, a critical area for corruptioo. The bill would mandate private inspections for any alteration costing more than $150,000 and for all new garages for more than 50 vehicles.

approvals and certifications.

And oowbere is his patience more tried than in the area of building inspections. De-lays can cost the developer of dollars a day.

To speed the process, payoffs are not uncommon. Until a builder obtains his certificate of occupancy, for example, he cannot replace his high-interest construction financing with cheaper, long-term loans, and his property cannot begin to yield income.

Full-time professional "expe-diters" nurse plans and projects through the red tape, but frustrated builders often feel their efforts are not enough. To attack the corruption problem in the building in-dustry, the city administration has proposed a bill that would significantly alter the inspection system by requir-ing developers of major projects to hire registered architects or engineers to cer-tify compliance with the building code. Such certifications would be subject to spotchecking by city inspect-ors, who would otherwise be freed for other assignments.

Construction Off

Construction inspectors oow spend about 25 percent of their working time on ma-jor new projects, which have fallen off drastically in recent years. The Buildings Department's inspection staff, according to Jeremiah T. Walsh, the Commissioner of Buildings, is less than 50 per-cent of what it was in 1970.

The legislation would, ac-

ine legislation would, according to city officials, eliminate much of the opportunity for graft and, therefore, tend to lower building costs. It would also, they argue, stimulate business confidence in the city by indicating its commitment to streamlining its burgesuccess, and improve its bureaucracy and improving its management practices.
They also hope it will spur new construction.
The bill, however, bas met delay in routine processing.

"Self-inspectioo," as the proposed plan is occasionally described, will give owners the security of a reasonable timetable for their considerable opposition. Segments of the architectural and engineering professions are hesitant of widening their exposure to liability and are concerned that they might be made vulnerable to conflictprojects and eliminate the need for graft, according to its supporters. Moreover, architects and ngineers are more qualified than the department's in-spectors, they say, and have more to lose.

The bill would enable an owner to hire the architect or engineer already at work on his project. These pro-fessionals would be held responsible for and be subject to criminal penalties for wil-ful falsifying of certification as well as removal from city registration lists, If found guilty of a false certification, the professional could lose his state license. Commissioner Walsh has argued that the plan would free his reduced staff to handle complaints of violations in existing buildings faster and to concentrate on matters of life and safety. A spokesman for the Department of Investigation said the plan might be adaptable to other city departments. "We're testing the waters," ha said, adding that the city had no inten-tion of using the system as a ploy to cut Civil Service.

lasted for over 2S years, although nothing was found to rebut e report during the first year of the investigation that the N.A.A.C.P. had a "strong tendency" tn "steer clear of Communist activities." Similarly, the F.B.I has admitted that the Socialist Workers Party has com-mitted no criminal acts. Yet the burean has investigated the Socialist Workers Party for more than three decades on the basis of its revolutionary rhetoric -which the F.B.I. concedes falls short nf incitement to vinlence—and its claimed international links. The bureau is currently using its informants to collect information about S.W.P. members' political views, including those on "U.S. involvement in Angola," "food prices," "racial matters," the "Vietnam War" and about any of their efforts to support oon-S.W.P. candidates for polltical office.

(e) National political leaders fell within the broad reach of intelligence investigations. For example, Army Intelligence maintained files on Senator Adlai Stevenson and Congressman Ab-oer Mikva because of their participation in peaceful political meetings under surveillance by Army agenta. A letter to Richard Nixon, while he was a candidate for President in 1968, was intercepted under C.LA.'s mail opening program. In the 1960's President Johnson asked the F.B.I. to compare various senators' statements on Vietnam with the Communist Party line and to conduct name checks on leading antiwar senators.

(f) As part of their effort to collect information which "related even remntely" to people or groups "active" in communities which had "the potential" for civil disorder, Army intelligence agencies took such steps as: sending agents to a Hallnween party for ele-mentary school children in Washington, D.C., because they suspected a local "dissident" might be present; monitoring protests of welfare mothers' organizations in Milwaukee: infiltrating a coalition of church youth groups in Cnloradn, and sending agents to a priests' conference in Washington, D.C., held to discuss hirth control measures.

(g) In the late 1960's and early 1970's, student groups were subjected to in-tense scrutiny. In 1970 the F.B.L. ordered investigations of every member nf the Students for a Democratic Society and of "every black student union and similar group regardless of their past or present involvement in disorders." Files were opened on thousands of young men and women so that, as the former head of F.B.L intelligence explained, the information could be used if they ever applied for a Government joh.

In the 1960's bureau egents were instructed to increase their efforts to discredit "New Left" student demonstrators by tactics including publishing photographs ("naturally the most obnoxious picture should be used"), using "misinformation" to falsely notify memhers events had been canceled, and writing "tell-tale" letters to students' parents.

(b) The F.B.I. Intellipeoce Division commonly investigated any indication that "subversive" groups already under investigation were seeking to influence nr control other groups. One example nf the extreme hreadth nf this "infiltra-tion" theory was an F.B.I. instruction in the mid-1960's to all field nffices to investigate every "free university" because some of them had come under "subversive influence."

(i) Each administration from Franklin D. Ronsevelt's tn Richard Nixon's permitted and sometimes encouraged Government ageocies to handle essentially political intelligence. For example: President Roosevelt asked the F.B.I.

to put in its files the names of citizenssending telegrams to the White Hnuse opposing his "natinoal defense" policy and supporting Cnl. Charles Lindhergh. President Truman received inside information on a former Roosevelt aide's efforts to influence his appointments, lahar union oegatiating plans and the publishing plans of jnurnalists. President Eisenhuwer received reports on purely political and social contacts with foreign nfficials by Bernard Baruch, Mrs. Eleannr Rnosevelt and Supreme Cnurt Justice William O. Douglas.

The Kennedy Administration had the F.B.I. wiretap a Congressional staff member, three executive nfficials a lobbyist and a Washington law firm. Attorney General Rnbert F. Kennedy received the fruits of a F.B.I. "tap" nn Martin Luther King Jr. and a "bug" on a Congressman, both of which yielded information of a political nature.

President Johnson asked the F.B.I. to conduct "name checks" of bis critics and of members of the staff of his 1964 opponeot, Senator Barry Gnldwater. He also requested purely political intelli-gence no his critics in the Senate, and received extensive intelligence repures on political activity at the 1964 Demo-cratic Conventinn from F.B.L electronic surveillance. President Nixon authorized a program of wiretaps which produced for the White House purely political or cersonal informatino unrelated to national security, including informatinn about a Sapreme Court justice.

3. Covert Action and the Use of Illegal or Improper Means (a) Covert Action

Apart from uncovering excesses in the collectinn of intelligence, nur lovestigation has disclosed covert actims directed against Americans, and the use of illegal and improper surveillance techniques to gather information. For example: (i) The F.B.L's Cointelpro-counterintelligence program-was designed to "disrupt" groups and "neutralize" individuals deemed in be threats to doniestic security. The F.B.L resurted to counterinteligence tactics in part because its chief officials believed that the existing law could not control the activities certain dissident groups and that court decisious had tied the hands of the intelligence community. Whatever npinion one bolds about the policies of the targeted groups, many of the tactics employed by the F.B.L. were indisputably degrading to a free society. Cnintelpro tactics included:

¶Anonymously attacking the political beliefs nf targets in nrder to induce their employers to fire them;

Anonymously mailing letters to the spouses of intelligence targets for the purpose of destroying their marriages;

GObtaining from LR.S. the tax returns of a target end then attempting to provoke an I.R.S. investigation for the express purpose of deterring a protest leader from attending the Democratic National Convention;

GFalsely and anonymously labeling as Government informants members of groups known to be vinlent, thereby expnsing the falsely labeled member tn expulsion or physical attack;

Pursuant to instructions to use "misinformation" to disrupt demonstrations, employing such means as broadcasting fake orders on the same citizens band radio frequency used by demonstration marshals to attempt to control demonstrations and duplicating and falsely filling out forms soliciting housing for persons coming to a demonstration, thereby causing "loog and useless jour-

Sending an anonymous letter to the leader of a Chicagn street garig (described as "vinlence-prone") stating that the Black Panthers were supposed to have "a hit for you." The letter was suggested because it "may intensify . . . aoimnsity" and cause the street gang leader to "take retaliatory action."

From "late 1963" until bis death in 1968, Martin Luther King Jr. was the target of an intensive campaign hy the Federal Bureau of Investigation to "neutralize" him as an effective civil rights leader. In the words of the man in charge of the F.B.L's "war" against Dr. King, "Nn bnlds were barred."

The F.B.I. gathered information about Dr. King's plans and activities through an extensive survellance program, employing nearly every intelligence-gathering technique at the hu-reau's disposal io nrder to nbtain ioformation about the "private activities of Dr. King and his advisers" to use tn "completely discredit" them

The program to destroy Dr. King as the leader of the civil rights movement included efforts to discredit him with executive branch officials, Congressional leaders, foreign beads of state, American ambassadurs, churches, universities and the press.

The F.B.I. mailed Dr. King a tape recording made from microphnnes hidden in his botel rooms which nne agent testified was an attempt to destroy Dr. King's marriage. The tape recording was accompanied by a note which Dr. King and his advisors interpreted as threatening to release the tapa recording unless Dr. King committed suicide.

paign to discredit Dr. King is evident from twn documents. At the August 1963 march nn Washlogton, Dr. King told the country of his

The extraordinary nature of the cam-

'dream' that: "All nf God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestant and Cathnlics, will be abla to join bands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual. Free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty, I'm free at Last.' The bureau's Domestic Intelligence Divising concluded that this "demagngic speech" established Dr. King as the "most dangerous and effective Negro leader in the country." Shartly afterwards, and within days after Dr. King was oamed "Man nf tha Year" hy Time magazine, the F.B.I. decided in "take him off his pedestal, reduce him completely in influence," and select land promote its nwn candidate to "assume the role of the leadership of the Negro people. In early 1968, hureau headquarters explained to the field that Dr. King must be destroyed because he was seen as a potential "messiah" whn could "unify and electrify" the "black nationalist movement." Indeed to the F.B.I. he was a potential threat because he might "abandon his supposed 'obedience' to white liberal doctrines (annviolence)." In short, a nonviolent man was to be secretly attacked and destroyed as insurance against his abandoning nonviolence.

(b) Illegal or Improper Means

The surveillance which we investigated was not only vastly excessive in hreadth and a basis for degrading 4. Ignoring the Law counterintelligence actions, but was also nften conducted by illegal or improper means. For example: (1) For approximately 20 years the

C.I.A. carried out a program of indiscriminately opening citizens first class mail. The hureau also had a mail opening program, but canceled it in 1966. The bureau continued, however, to receive the illegal fruits of 'C.I.A.'s program. In 1970, the beeds of both agencies signed e document for President Nixon, which correctly stated that mail opening was illegal, falsely stated that it had been discontinued and proposed that the illegal opening of mail should be resumed because it would provide useful results. The President approved the program, but withdrew his approval five days later. The illegal opening continued nonetheless. Throughout this period C.I.A. officials knew that mail opening was illegal hut expressed concern about the "flep potential" of exposure, not ebout the illegality of thair ectivity.

(2) From 1947 until May 1975, N.S.A. received from international cable companies millions of cables which had been sent by American citizens in the reasonable expectation that they would be kept private agencies have frequently wiretapped and hugged American citizens withnut the henefit of judicial warrant. Recent court decisions have curtailed the use of these techniquea against dnmestic targets. But past subjects of these surveillances have included a United States Congressman, a Congressional staff memher, journalists and oewsmen, and numerous individuala and groups who engaged in nn criminal activity and who posed no genuine threat to the national security, such as two White House domestic affairs advisers and an anti-Vietnam War protest group. While the prinr written approval of the Attornev General has been required for all warrantiess wiretaps aince 1940, the record is replete with instances where this requirement was ignored and the Attoroey General gave naly after-thefact authorizating.

(3) Since the early 1930's, intelligence

Until 196S, microphone surveillance hy intelligence agencies was wholly unregulated in certain classes of cases. Withio weeks after a 1954 Supreme Court decisino denouncing the F.B.L's installation of a microphone in a defendant's hedroom, the Attorney General informed the bureau that be did not believe the decisino applied to netinnal security cases and permitted the F.B.L. in continue to install microphones subject nnly to its nwn "mtelligent re-

(4) In several cases, purely political information (such as the reaction of Congress to an Administration's legislative proposal) and purely personal information (such as coverage of the extramarital social activities of a highlevel executive nfficial under surveillance) was nhtained from electronic surveillance and disseminated to the bighest levels of the Federal Government

(5) Warrantless hreak-ins bave been conducted hy intelligence agencies since World War IL During the 1960's alone, the F.B.I. and C.I.A. conducted hundreds of break-ins, many against American citizens and domestic organizations. In some cases, these break-ins were to install microphones; in other cases, they were to steal such items as membership lists from nrganizations considered "subversive" by the hureau.

(6) The most pervasive aurveillance technique has been the informant. In a random sample of domestic intelligence cases, 83 percent involved informants and 5 percent involved electronic surveillance. Informants have been used against peaceful, law-abiding groups; they have collected information about personal and political views and activiies. To maintain their credentials in vinlence-prone groups, informants have lovnived themselves in vinlent activity. This phenomenan is well illustrated by an informant io the Klan. He wes present at the murder of a civil rights worker in Mississippi and subsequently helped to solve the crime and coovict the perpetrators. Earlier, however, while performing duties paid for by the Government, he hed previously 'beaten people severely, had boarded huses and kicked people, had [gone] into restaurants and beaten them [blacks] with hlackjacks, chains, pistols." Although the F.B.l. requires agents to instruct informants that they cannot be involved in violence, it was understood that in the Klan, "he couldn't be an angel and be a good informant."

The New York Times/Terusa Zabala

Officials of the intelligence agencies occasionally recognized that certain activities were illegal, but expressed concern only for "flap potential." Even more disturbing was the frequent testimony that the law and the Constitution were simply ignored. For example, the author of the so-called Hustoo plan tes-

Question: Was there any person whn atated that the activity recommended, which you have previously identified as being illegal opening nf the mail and breaking and eotry or burglary-was there any single person who stated that such activity should not be done because it was unconstitutional? Answer: No

Question: Was there any single person who said such activity should not be done because it was Illegal?

Answer: No. Similarly, the man whn for 10 years headed F.B.1.'s Intelligence Division testified thet:

. . never once did 1 hear anybody, including myself, raise the question: Is this course of action which we have agreed upon lewful, is it legal, is it we never gave any thought to this line of reasoning, because we were just neturally prag-

Although the statutory law and the Constitution were often not "[giveo] a thnught," there wes a general attitude that intelligeoce needs were responsive to a higher law. Thus, as one witness testified in justifying the F.B.I.'s mail opening program:

"It was my assumption that what we were dning was justified by what we had in dn . . . the greater good, the national security.

5. Deficiencies in Accountability and Control

The nverwhelming number of excesses continuing over e prolunged period nf time were due in large measure to the fact that the system of checks and balances-created in nur Constitution to limit abuse of governmental power—was seldom applied to the intelligence community. Guidance and regulation from nutside the intelligence agencies-where it has been imposed at all-has been vague. Presidents and nther senior executive officials, particularly the Attorneys General, have virtually abdicated their consitutional responsibility to oversee and set standards for intelligence activity. Senior Government nfficials generally gave the egencies broad, general mandates or pressed for immediate results on pressing problems. In neither case did they provide guidance to pre-vent excesses and their hroad mandates and pressures themselves nften resulted io excessive nr improper intelligence activity.

Congress has nften declined to exercise meaningful oversight, and nn occasion has passed laws nr made statements which were taken by intelligence agencies as supporting nverly broad investigations.

On the other hand, the record reveals instances when intelligence agencies have concealed improper activities from their superiors in the executive branch and from the Congress, nr have elected to disclose only the less questimable aspects of their activities.

There has been, in short, a clear and sustaioed failure hy thuse responsible to control the intelligence community and to insure its accountability. There has been an equally clear and sustained failure hy intelligence agencies to fully inform the proper authorities of their activities and to comply with directives from those authorities.

6. The Adverse Impact of Improper Intelligence Activity

Many of the illegal nr improper disruptive efforts directed against American citizens and domestic organizations succeeded in injuring their targets, Although it is sometimes difficult to prove that a target's misfortunes were caused by a counterintelligence program directed against him, the possibility that an arm of the United States Govern-

ent intended to cause the harm and might have been responsible is itself

The committee has observed numerous examples of the impact of intelligence operations. Sometimes the harm was readily apparent-destruction of marloss of friends or jobs. Sometimes the attitudes of the public and of Government officials responsible for formulating policy and resulving vital issues were influenced by distorted intelligence. But the most basic harm was tn the values of privacy and freedom which nur Constitution seeks to protect and which intelligence ectivity infringed nn a broad scale.

(a) General Efforts to Discredit

Several efforts against individuals and groups appear to have achieved their stated aims. For example:

SA bureeu field uffice reported that the annovmous letter it had sent to an activist's busband accusing his wife of infidelity "contributed very strongly to the subsequent breakup of the mar-

SAnother field office reported that a draft counselor, deliberately and falsely accused of being an F.B.I. informant, was "ostracized" by his friends and associates.

Two instructors were reportedly put on probation after the bureau sent an anonymnus letter to a university administrator about their funding of an anti-Administration student newspaper.

The hureau evaluated its attempta to "put a stop" to a contribution to the Snuthern Christian Leadership Conference as "quite successful."

¶An F.B.1, document boasted that a "pretext" phone call to Stokely Carmichael's muther telling ber that members of the Black Panther Party intended to kill ber aon left her "shncked." The memorandum intimated that the hureau helieved it had heen responsible for Carmichael's flight to Africa the following day.

(b) Media Manipulation

The F.B.I, has attempted covertly to influence the public's perception of persons and organizations by disseminating derogatory information to the press. either anonymously or through "friendly" news cootscts. The impact of those articles is generally difficult tn measure, although in some cases there are fairly direct connections to injury to the target. The hureau also attempted to influence media reporting which would bave an impact on the public image of the F.B.I. Examples include: Planning a series of derogatory articles about Martin Luther King Jr., and the pour people's campaign. For example, in anticipation of the 1968 "poor people's march on Washington, D. C.," bureau headquarters granted authority to furnish "cooperative news media sources" an article designed to curtail success of Martin Luther King's fund raising." Annther memorandum illustrated how ՝Ֆիրքը. graphs of demonstrators" could be used lo discredition the civil rights movement. Six photographs of participants In the poor people's campaign in Cleveland eccompanied the memorandum with the fullowing unte attached: "These [pbotngraphs] show the militant aggressive appearance of the participants and might be of interest tn a cooperative news source." Informatinn on the "poor people's campaign was provided the F.B.I. to friendly reporters on the condition that "the Bureau must not be revealed as the snurce."

¶Soliciting information from field offices "on a continuing basis" for "prompt . . . dissemination in the news media . . . to discredit the New Left movement and its adherents." The headquarters directive requested, among nther things, that:

Specific data should be furnished depicting the scurrilous and depraved nature of many of the characters, activities, habits end living cooditions representative of New Left adherents." Field Offices were to be exhorted that

"every evenue of possible embarrassment must be vignrously and enthusiastically explored."

4Ordering field nffices to gather in-formation which would disprove allegations by the "liberal press, tha bleeding hearts and the forces on the left" that the Chicago pnlice used undue force in dealing with demnostrators at the 1968 emocratic conventing.

Taking advantage of a cluse relationship with the chairman of the boarddescribed in an F.B.I. memprandum as "nur good friend"— nf a magazina with national circulation to influence articles which related to the F.B.I. Fnr example, through this relatiooship the bureau "aquelched" an "unfavorable article against the bureau" written by a freelanca writer about an F.B.I. investigatinn; "postponed publication" of an article on another F.B.I. case; "forestalled publication" of an article hy Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and received information about proposed editing of King'a articles.

(c) Distorting Data to Influence Government Policy and Public Perceptions

Accurate intelligence is a prerequisite tn sound Government policy. Hnwever, as the past head of the F.B.I.'s Domestic Intelligeoce Divisinn reminded the committee: "The facts hy themselves ere oot ton meaningful. They are something like stones cast lotn a heap. On certain crucial subjects the domestic intelligence ageocies reported the "facts" in ways that gave rise to misleading impressions.

Fnr example, the F.B.L's Domestic Intelligence Division initially discounted as an "nbvinus failure" the alleged attempts of Commuosts tn influence the civil rights movement. Without any significant change in the factual situatinn, the bureau moved from the division's conclusion to Director Honver's public Congressional testimony characterizing Communist influance no the civil rights movement as "vitally important." F.B.1. reporting on protests against the Vietnam War provides another example of the manner in which the information provided to decision-makers' can be skewed. In acquiescense with a judgment already expressed by President Johnson, the bureau's reports on demonstrations against the war in Vietnam emphasized Communist efforts to influence the antiwar movement and underplayed the fact that the vast majority of demonstrators were not Communist controlled.

(d) "Chilling" First Amendment Rights

The First Amendment protects the rights of American citizens to engage in free and open discussions and to associate with persons of their choosing. Intelligence agencies bave, on occasion, expressly attempted to interfere with those rights. For example, one internal F.B.L memorandum called for "more interviews" with New Left subjects "to enhance the paranoia endemic in these circles" and "get the point across there is an F.B.I. agent behind every mailbox."

More importantly, the Government's surveillance activities in the aggregate whether or not expressly intended to do so-tend, as the committee con-cludes, to deter the exercise of First Amendment rights by American citizens who become aware of the Government's domestic intelligence program.

(e) Preventing the Free Exchange of Ideas

Speakers, teachers, writers and publications themselves were targets of the F.B.L's counterintelligence program. The F.B.L's efforts to interfere with the free exchange of ideas included:

Anonymously attempting to prevent an alleged "Communist-front" group from holding a forum on a Midwest campus and then investigating the judge who ordered that the meeting be allowed to proceed.

¶Using another "confidential source" m a foundation which contributed to a local college to apply pressure on the school to fire an activist professor.

¶Anonymously contacting a univer-sity official to urge him to "persuade" two professors to stop funding a student newspaper in order to "eliminate what voice the New Left has" in the area. Targeting the New Mexicu Free University for teaching "confrontatioo politics" and "draft counseling training."

7. Cost and Value

Domestic intelligence is expeosive. We bave already indicated the cost of illegal and improper intelligence activities in terms of the harm to victims, the injury to constitutional values and the damage to the democratic process itself. The cost in dollars is also significant. For example, the F.B.L has budgeted for fiscal year 1976 over $7 million for its domestic security informant program, more than twice the amount It speods oo informants against organized crime. The aggregate hudget for F.B.L domestic security intelligence and foreign counterintelligeoce is at least $50 millioo. In the late 1960's and early 1970's, when the bureau was joined by the C.I.A., the military and N.S.A. In collecting information about the antiwar movement and black activists, the cost was substantially greater.

Apart from the excesses described above, the usefulness of many domestic intelligeoce activities in serving the legitimate goal of protecting society has been questiooable. Properly directed intelligeoce investigations concentrating upoo bostile foreign agents and violent terrorists can produce valuable results. The committee has examined cases where the F.B.I. uncovered "illegal" agents of a foreign power engaged in clandestine intelligence activities in violation of Federal law. Information leading to the prevention of serious violence has been acquired by the F.B.L. through its informant penetration of terrorist groups and through the inclusion in bureau files of the names of persons actively involved with such groups. Nevertheless, the most sweeping domestic intelligence surveillance programs have produced surprisingly few useful returns in view of their extent. For

Between 1960 and 1974, the F.B.L. conducted over 500,000 separate investigations of persons and groups under the "subversive" category, predicated on the possibility that they might be likely to overthrow the Government of the United States. Yet not a single individual or group has been prosecuted since 1957 under the laws which prohibit planning or advocating action to overthrow the Government and which are the main alleged statutory basis for such F.B.I. investigations.

¶A recent study by the General Accounting Office has estimated that of some 17,528 F.B.L domestic intelligence investigations of individuals in 1974, only 1.3 percent resulted in prosecution and conviction, and in only "about 2 percent" of the cases was advance knowledge of any activity-legal or iilegal-obtained.

One of the main reasons advanced for expanded collection of intelligence about urban unrest and antiwar protest was to help responsible officials cope with possible violence. However, a former White House official with maior duties in this area under the Johnson Administration bas concluded, in retrospect, that "in none of these situations . . . would advance intelligence about dissident groups [have] been of much help," that what was needed was "physical intelligence" about the geography of major cities, and that the attempt to "predict violence" was not a "successful undertaking."

¶Domestic intelligence reports have sometimes even been counterproductive. A local police chief, for example, described F.B.L reports which led to the positioning of Federal troops near his

... Almost completely composed of unsorted and unevaluated stories, threats and rumors that had crossed my desk in New Haven. Many of these had long before been discounted by our intelligence division. But they had made their way from New Haven to Washington, had gained completely unwarranted credibility and had been submitted by the Director of the F.B.L to the President of the United States. They seemed to present a convincing picture of impending bolocaust."

In considering its recommendations, the committee undertook an evaluation of the F.B.L's claims that domestic intelligence was necessary to combat terrorism, civil disorders, "subversion" and hostile foreign intelligence activity. The committee reviewed voluminous materials bearing oo this issue and questioned bureau officials and former Federal executive officials.

We have found that we are in fundamental agreement with the wisdom of Attorney Geoeral Stone's initial warning that intelligence agencies must not "concerned with political or other opinions of individuals" and must be limited to investigating essentially only "such conduct as is forbiddeo by the laws of the United States." The committee's record demonstrates that domestic intelligeoce which departs from this standard raises grave risks of undermining the democratic process and harming the interests of individual citizens. This danger weighs heavily against the speculative or negligible henefits of the ill-defined and overbroad investigations authorized in the past. Thus, the basic purpose of the recommendations in this report is to limit the F.B.I. to investigating conduct rather than ideas or associations.

The excesses of the past do not, however, justify depriving the United States of a clearly defined and effectively controlled domestic intelligence capability. The intelligence services of this nation's international adversaries continue to atoperations within the United States. Our recommendations provide for intelligence investigations of hostile foreign intelligeoce activity.

Moreover, terrorists have engaged in serious acts of violence which have brought death and injury to Americans and threaten further such acts. These acts, not the politics or beliefs of those who would commit them, are the proper focus for investigations to anticipate terrorist violence. Accordingly, the committee would permit properly cootrolled intelligence investigations in those narrow circumstances.

Coocentratioo on imminent violence can avoid the wasteful dispersion of resources which has characterized the sweeping (and fruitless) domestic intelligence investigations of the past. But the most important reason for the fundamental change in the domestic intelligence operations which our recommendations propose is the need to protect the constitutional rights of Amer-

In light of the record of abuse revealed by our inquiry, the committee is not satisfied with the position that mere exposure of what has occurred in the past will prevent its recurrence. Clear legal standards and effective oversight and controls are necessary to insure that domestic intelligence activity does not itself undermine the democratic system it is intended to protect.

RECOMMENDATIONS

herent constitutional authority for the Central Intelligence should be made re-President or any intelligence agency to violate the law.

Recommendation 2—It is the intent of the committee that statutes implementing these recommendations provide the exclusive legal authority for Federal domestic security activities.

(a) No intelligence agency may engage in such activities unless anthorized by statute, nor may it permit its employees, informants or other covert human sources to engage in such activities on its behalf.

(b) No executive directive or order may he issued which would conflict with such statutes.

Recommendation 3-In authorizing intelligence agencies to engage in certain activities, it is not intended that such authority empower agencies, their informants or covert human sources to violate any prohibition enacted oursuant to these recommendations or cootained in the Constitution or in any other law.

Recommendation 4—To supplement the prohibitions in the 1947 National Security Act against the C.I.A. exercising "police, subpoena, law enforcement powers or internal security functions," the C.I.A. should be probibited from conducting domestic security activities within the United States, except as specifically permitted by these recom-sponsible for "coordinating" the protection of sources and methods of the intelligence community. As head of the C.I.A., the Director should also be responsible in the first instance for the security of C.LA, facilities, personnel, operations and information. Neither function, however, authorizes the Director of Central Intelligence to violate any Federal or state law or to take any action which is otherwise inconsistent. with statutes implementing these recommendations. Recommendation 6—The C.I.A. should not conduct electronic surveillance, unauthorized entry or mail openings within the United States for any purpose.

Recommendation 7-The C.I.A. should not employ physical surveillance, infiltration of groups or any other covert techniques against Americans within the United States except:

(a) Physical surveillance of persons on the grounds of C.I.A. installations; (b) Physical surveillance during a preliminary investigation of allegations an employee is a security risk for a limited period outside of C.I.A. installations. Such surveillance should be conducted only upon written authorization of the Director of Central Intelligence and should be limited to the subject of the investigation and, only to the extent necessary to identify them, to persons with whom the subject has contact;

an employee is a security risk, of outside sources concerning medical or financial information about the subject which is relevant to those allegations;

(d) The use of identification which does not reveal C.I.A. or Government affiliation, in background and other security investigations permitted the CLA by these recommendations and the conduct of checks which do not reveal C.LA. or Government affiliation for the purpose of judging the effectiveness of cover operations upon the written authorization of the Director of Central Intelligence:

(e) In exceptional cases, the placement or recruitment of agents within an unwitting domestic group solely for the purpose of preparing them for assignments abroad and only for as long as is necessary to accomplish that pur-pose. This should take place only if the Director of Central Intelligence makes a written finding that it is essential for foreign intelligence collection of vital importance to the United States, and the Attorney General makes a written finding that the operation will be conducted under procedures designed to prevent misuse of the undisclosed participation or of any information obtained therefrom. In the case of any such action, no information received by C.I.A. from the agent as a result of his position in the group ahould be dissemioated outside the C.L.A. unless it indicates felonious criminal cooduct or threat of death or serious bodily harm, in which case dissemination should be permitted to an appropriate official agency if approved by the Attorney

Recommendation 8 - The C.LA. should oot collect information within the United States concerning Americans except:

(a) Information concerning C.I.A. employees, C.LA. contractors and their employees or applicants for such employment or contracting,

(b) Information concerning individuals or organizations providing or offering to provide assistance to the C.I.A.; (c) Information concerning individuals or organizations being considered by the C.LA, as potential sources of information or assistance;

(d) Visitors to C.I.A. facilities:

(e) Persons otherwise in the immediate vicinity of aensitive C.I.A. sites; or (f) Persons who give their informed written consect to such collection.

In (a), (b) and (c) above, information should be collected only if necessary for the purpose of determining the person's fitness for employment or assistance. If, in the course of such collection, information is obtained which indicates criminal activity, it should be transmtted to the F.B.L or other appropriate ageocy. When an American's relationship with the C.I.A. is prospective, information should only he collected if there is a bona fide expectation the person might he used by the

Recommendation 9-The C.I.A. should not collect information abroad concern-Ing Americans except: (a) Information coocerning Americans which it is permitted to collect within the United States; (b) At the request of the Justice De-tions or an iovestigation of an American for suspected terrorist or bostile foreign intelligence activities or security leak or security risk investigations which the F.B.L has opened.

Recommendation 10-The C.I.A. should be able to transmit to the F.B.I. or other appropriate agencies information concerning Americans acquired as the incidental byproduct of otherwise permissible foreign intelligence and counterintelligence operations whenever such information indicates any activity in violation of American law. Recommendation 11-The C.LA. may employ covert techniques abroad against Americans: (a) Under circumstances in which the C.I.A. could use such covert techniques against Americans within the United States, or (b) When collection information as part of Justice Department investigation, in which case the C.L.A. may use a particular covert technique under the standards and procedures and approvals applicable to its use against Americans within the United States by the F.B.L. (c) To the extent necessary to identify persons known or suspected to ha Americans who come in cootact with foreigners the C.LA. is investigating.

C.I.A. Human Experiments and Drug Use

Recommendation 12-The C.LA. should not use he experimentation oo human subjects any drug, device or procedure which is designed or intended harm, or is reasonably likely to harm, the physical or mental health of the human subject, except with the informed written consent, witnessed hy disinterested third party, of each human subject, and in accordance with the guidelines issued by the National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects for Biomedical and Be havioral Research. The jurisdiction of the commission should be amended to include the Central Intelligence Agency and other intelligence agencies of the United States Government,

Recommendation 13-Any C.LA. activity engaged in pursuant to Recommendations 7, 8, 9, 10 or 11 should be subject to periodic review and certifietion of compliance with the Constitution, applicable statutes, agency regulations and executive orders by: (a) The Inspector General of the

(b) The General Counsel of the C.LA., in coordination with the Director of Central Intelligence;

(c) The Attorney General, and (d) The oversight committee recommended [below]. All such certifications should be available for review by Congressional oversight committees. Recommendation I4-N.S.A. should not engage in domestic security activities. Its functions should be limited in a precisely drawn legislative charter to the collection of foreign intelligence from foreign communications, preliminary investigation of allegations take all practicable measures consistent with its foreign intelligence mission to eliminate or minimize the interception, selection and monitoring of communications of Americans from the foreign communications.

Recommendation 16-N.S.A. should not be permitted to select for monitoring any communication to, from or about an American without his consent, except for the purpose of obtaining information about hostile foreign intelligence or terrorist activities, and then only if a warrant approving such monitoring is obtained in accordance with procedures similar to those contained in Title III of the Omnibus Crime Controi and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

Recommendation 17 --- Any personally identifiable information about an American which N.S.A. incidentally acquires, other than pursuant to a warrant, should not be disseminated without the consent of the American, but should be destroyed as promotiv as possible unless it indi-

(b) Felonious criminal conduct for which a warrant might be obtained pursuant to Title III of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safa Streets Act of 1968, or (c) A threat of death or serious bod-Hy harm.

If dissemination is permitted, by (a), (b) and (c) above, it must only be made to an appropriate official and after approval by the Attorney General.

Recommendation 18 - N.S.A. should not request from any commercial carrier any communication which it could not otherwise obtain pursuant to these recommendations.

Recommendation 19-The Office of Security at N.S.A. should be permitted to collect background information on present or prospective employees or contractors for N.S.A. solely for the purpose of determining their fitness for employment. With respect to security risks or the security of its installations. N.S.A. should be permitted to conduct physical surveillances consistent with such surveillances as the C.I.A. is permitted to conduct, in similar circumstances, by these recommendations.

Recommendation 20-Except as specifically provided herein, the Department of Defense should not engage in domestic security activities. Its functions, as they relate to the activities of the foreign intelligence community, should be limited in a precisely drawn legislative charter to the conduct of foreign intelligence and foreign counterintelligence activities and tactical military intelligence activities abroad and production, analysis and dissemination of departmental intelligence.

Recommendation 21-In addition to its foreign intelligence responsibility, the Department of Defense has a responsibility to investigate its personnel in order to protect the security of its installations and property, to ensure order and discipline within its ranks and to conduct other limited investigations once dispatched by the President to suppress a civil disorder. A legislative charter should define precisely—in a manner which is not inconsistent with these recommendations-the authorized scope and purpose of any investigations undertakeo by the Department of Defense to satisfy these responsibilities.

Recommendation 22-No ageocy of the Departmen; of Defense should conduct investigations of violations of criminal law or otherwise perform any law enforcement or domestic security functions within the United States, except on military bases or concerning military personnel to enforce the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Control of Civil Disturbance Intelligence

Recommendation 23-The Department of Defense should not be permitted to conduct investigations of Americans oo the theory that the information derived therefrom might be useful in potential civil disorders. The Army ahould be permitted to gather information about geography, logistical matters or the identity of local officials which is necessary to the positioning, support and use of troops in an area where troops are likely to be deployed by the President in connection with a civil disturbance. The Army should be permitted to investigate Americans involved in such disturbances after troops have been deployed to the site of a civil disorder to the extent necessary to fulfill the military mission and to the extent the information cannot be obtained from the F.B.I.

Recommendation 24 — Appropriate agencies of the Department of Defense should be permitted to collect background information on their present or prospective employees or contractors. With respect to security risks or the security of its installations, the Department of Defense should be permitted to conduct physical surveillance consiswith such surveillances as the C.L.A. is permitted to conduct, in similar circumstances, by these recommenda-

Recommendation 25-Except as provided in 27 below, the Department of Defense should not direct any covert technique (e.g., electronic surveillance, informants, etc.) at American civilians. Recommendation 26—The Department of Defense shookl be permitted to conduct abroad preventive intelligence in-vestigations of unaffiliated Americans, provided such investigations are first approved by the F.B.I. Such investigations by the Department of Defense including the use of covert techniques. should ordinarily be conducted in a manner consistent with the recommendations pertaining to the F.B.I.; however in overseas locations where U.S. milita-Ty forces constitute the governing power or where U.S. military forces are engaged in hostilities circumstances may require greater latitude to conduct such investigations.

Recommendation 27 - The I.R.S. should not, oo behalf of any intelligence agency or for its own use, collect any information about the activities of Americans except for the purposes of enforcing the tax laws.

Disclosure Procedures

Recommendation 30-No intelligence agency should request from the Internal Revenue Service tax returns or tax-related information except under the statutes and regulations controlling such disclosures. In addition, the existing procedures under which tax returns and tax-related information are released by the LR.S. should be strengthened as suggested in the following five recommendations.

Recommendation 31 - All requests from an intelligence agency to the IR.S. for tax returns and tax-retated information should be in writing and signed by the head of the intelligence agency making the requests or his designee. Copies of such requests should be filed with the Attorney General: Each request should include a clear statement of: (a) The purpose for which disclosure

(e) Agreement by the requesting agency not to use the documents or information for any purpose other than that stated in the request, and

(f) Agreement hy the requesting agency that the information will not be disclosed to any other agency or person except in accordance with the law. Recommendation 32-LR.S. should oot release tax returns or tax-related information to any intelligence agency unless it has received a request satisfying the requirements of Recommendation 31 and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has approved the request inwriting.

Recommendation 33-LRS. should maintain a record of all such requests and responses thereto for a period of

Recommendation 34-No intelligence agency should use the information supplied to it by the LR.S. pursuant to a request of the agency except as stated in a proper request for disclosure. Recommendation 35-All requests for mormation sought by the F.B.I. should be filed by the Department of Justice-Such requests should be signed by the Attorney General or his designee, following a determination by the department that the request is proper under the applicable statutes and regulations.

Post Office

Recommendation 36—The Post Office should not permit the F.B.L or any intelligence agency to inspect markings or addresses on first class mail, nor should the Post Office itself inspect markings or addresses on behalf of the F.B.L or any intelligence agency on first class mail, except upon the written approval of the Attorney Genral or his designee. Where one of the correspondents is an American, the Attorney General or his designee shoold only approve such inspection for domestic security purposes upon a written finding that it is necessary to a criminal investigation or a preventive intelligence investigation of terrorist activity or hostile foreign intelligence activity.

Upon such a request, the Post Office may temporarily remove from circulation such correspondnce for the pur-pose of such inspection of its exterior as is related to the investigation.

Recommendation 37-The Post Office should not transfer the custody of any first class mail to any agency except the Department of Jostice. Such mail should-not be transferred or opened except upon a judicial search warrant.

(a) In the case of mail where one of the correspondents is an American, the judge must find that there is probable cause to believe that the mail contains evidence of a crime. (b) In the case of mail where both parties are foreigners: (1) The judge must find that there is probable cause to believe that both parties to such correspondenca are foreigners and or one of the correspondents is an official employee or conscious agent of a foreign power, and (2) The Attorney General must certify that the mail opening is likely to reveal information necessary either to the protection of the nation against actual or potential attack or other hostile acts of force of a foreign power; to obtain foreign intelligence information deemed essential to the security of the United States, or to protect national security information against hostile foreign intelligence activity. Recommendation 38-All domestic security investigative activity, including the use of covert techniques, should be centralized within the Federal Bureau of Investigation, except those investigations by the Secret Service designed to protect the life of the President or other Secret Service protectees, Such investigations and the use of covert techniques in those investigations should be centralized within the Secret Service.

Recommendation 39-All domestic security activities of the Federal Government and all other intelligence agency activities covered by the domestic intelligence recommendations should sight to assure complian Constitution and laws of States.

Recommendation 48 should be prohibited from its own or through informe in any of the following ac ed at Americans:

(d) Background investigations—to the maximum extent feasible, the results of background investigations should be segregated within the F.B.I. and only disseminated to officials outside the Department of Justice authorized to make personnel decisions with respect to the subject.

(e) All other authorized domestic security investigations-to governmental officials who are authorized to take action consistent with the purpose of an investigation or who bave starutory duties which require the information. Recommendation 68-Officers of the executive branch who are made responsibla by these recommendations for overseeing intelligence activities and appropriate Congressional committees should have access to all information necessary for their functions. The committees should adopt procedures to protect the privacy of subjects of files maintained by the F.B.I. and other agen-cies affected by the domestic intelligence recommendations.

Attorney General Oversight of the F.B.I.

Recommendation 69-The Attorney General should:

(a) Establish e program of routine and periodic review of F.B.I. domestic security investigations to ensure that the F.B.I. is complying with all of the foregoing recommendations, and

(b) Assure, with respect to the following investigations of Americans, that: (1) Preventive intelligence investigations of terrorist activity or bostile foreign intelligence activity are termineted within one year, except that the Attorney General or his designee may grant extensions upon a written finding of "compelling circumstances": (2) Covert techniques are used in preventive intelligence investigations of terrorist activity or hostile foreign intelligence activity only so long as necesseand not beyond time limits established by the Attorney General, except that the Attorney General or his designee may grant extensions upon a written finding of "compelling circumstances."

(3) Civil disorders assistance is terminated upon withdrawal of Federal troops or, if troops were not introduced, within a reasonable time after the finding by the Attorney General that troops are likely to be requested, except that the Attorney General or his designee may grant extensions upon a written finding of "compelling circumstances."

Recommendation 70-The Attorney General should review the internal regulations of the F.B.I,-and other intelligeoce agencies engaging in domestic security activities to eosure that such internal regulations are proper and adequate to protect the constitutional rights of Americans.

Recommenation 71-The Attorney General or bis designee (such as the Office of Legal Counsel of the Department of Justice) should advise the general counsels of intelligence agencies on interpretations of statutes and regulations adopted pursuant to these recommendations and on such other legal questions as are described below.

Recommendation 72—The Attorney General should have ultimate responsibility for the investigation of alleged violations of law relating to the domestic intelligence recommendations.

Recommendations 73-The Attorney General should be notified of possible alleged violations of law through the Office of Professional Responsibility by agency heads, general counsel or inspectors general of intelligence agencies.

Recommendation 74-The heads of all intelligence agencies affected by these recommendations are responsible for the prevention and detection of alleged violations of the law by or on behalf of their respective agencies and for the reporting to the Attorney General of all such alleged violations. Each such agency head should also assure his agency's cooperation with the Attorney General in investigation of alleged viola-

Recommendation 75-The F.B.I. and each other intelligence agency should have a general counsel, nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, and an inspector general appointed by the agency bead.

Recommendation 76-Any individual baving information on past, current or proposed activities which appear to be illegal, improper or in violation of agency policy should be required to report the matter immediately to the agency head, general counsel or inspector gen-eral. If the matter is not initially reported to the general counsel he should be notified by the agency head or inspector general Eech egency should regularly remind employees of their obligation to report such information.

Recommendation 77-As provided in Recommendation 74, the heads of the F.B.L and of other intelligence agencies are responsible for reporting to the At-torney General alleged violations of law. When such reports are made the appropriate Congressional committees should be notified.

Recommendation 78 - Tha general counsel and inspector general of the F.B.I. and of each other intelligence agency should have unrestricted access to all information in the possession of the agency and should have the authority to review all of the agency's activities. The Attorney General of the Office of Professional Responsibility, on his behalf, should have access to all informatio in the possession of an agency which, in the opinion of the Attorney General is necessary for an investigation of illegal activity.

Recommendation 79 — The general counsel of the F.B.I. and of each other intelligence agency should review all significant proposed agency activities to datermine their legality and constitu-

Recommendation 80-The director of the F.B.I. and the heads of each other intelligence agency should be required to report at least annually, to the appropriate committee of the Congress on the activities of the general counsel and the Office of the Inspector General.

Recommendation 31-The director of the F.B.I: and the heads of each other intelligence agency should be required to report, at least annually, to the Atlorney General on all reports of activibes which appear illegal, improper, outside the legislative charter or in violation of agency regulations. Such reports should include the general counsel's findings concerning these activities, a summary of the inspector general's investigations of these activities and the practice and procedures developed to discover activities that raise questions of legality or propriety.

Office of Professional Responsibility

Recommendation 82-The Office of Professional Responsibility created by Attorney General Levi should be recognized in statute. The director of the office, appointed by the Attorney General, should report directly to the Attorney General or the Deputy Attorney General. The functions of the offica should in-

(e) Serving as a central repository of reports and notifications provided the Attorney General, and (b) Investigation, if requested by the Attorney General, of alleged violations by intelligence agencies of statutes enacted or regulations promulgated pursuant to these recommendations. Recommendation 83-The Attorney General is responsible for all of the activities of the F.B.L. and the director of the F.B.I. is responsible to, and should under the supervision and control of, the Attorney General.

Recommendation 84-The director of the F.B.I. should be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate to serve at the pleasure of the President for a single term of not more than eight

Recommendation 85-The Attorney General should consider exercising his power to appoint assistant directors of tha F.B.L should he nominated by the should be imposed on the tenure of the assistant director for the Intelligence Di-

Recommendation 86-The Attorney General should approve all administrative regulations required to implement statutes created pursuant to these recommendations:

Recommendation 87-Such regulations, except for regulations concerning investigations of hostile foreign intelligence activity or other matters which are properly classified, should be issued pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act and should be subject to the approval of the Attorney General.

Recommendation 88-The effective date of reguletions pertaining to the following matters should be delayed 90 days, during which time Congress would have the opportunity to review such regulations:

(a) Any C.I.A. activities against Americans, as permitted above;

(b) Military activities at the time of a civil disorder;

(c) The authorized scope of domestic security investigations, authorized investigative techniques, maintenance and dissemination of information by the FBL and

(d) The termination of Investigations and covert techniques as described Recommendation 89-Each year the

F.B.I. and other intelligence agencies affected by these recommendations should be required to seek annual statutory authorization for their programs.

Recommendation 90—The Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552 (b)) and the Federal Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552 (a)) provide important mechanisms by which individuals can gain eccess to information on intelligence activity directed against them. The domestic intelligence recommendations essume that these statutes will continue to be vigorously enforced. In addition. the Department of Justice should notify. all readily identifiable targets of past illegal surveillance techniques and all Cointelpro victims and third parties who had received anonymous Cointelpro communications of the nature of the activities directed against them or the source of the anonymous communication to them

Recommendation 91—Congress should epact a comprehensive civil remedies statute which would accomplish the

(a) Any American with a substantial and specific claim to an actual or threatened injury by a violation of the Constitution by Federal intelligence officers or agents acting under color of law should have a Federal cause of action against the Government and the individual Federal intelligence offi-cer or agent responsible for the violatinn, without regard to the monetary amount in controversy. If actual injury is proven in court, the committee believes that the injured person should be entitled to equitable relief, actual, general and punitive damages and recovery of the costs of litigation. If threatened injury is proven in court, the committee believes that equitable relief and recovery of the costs of litigation should be available.

(b) Any American with a substantial and specific claim to actual or threatened injury by violation or the statutory charter for intelligence activity (as proposed by these domestic intelligence recommendations) should have a cause of ection for relief as in (a) above.

(c) Because of the secrecy that surrounds intelligence programs, the committee believes that a plaintiff should bave two years from the date upon which he discovers or reasonably should have discovered the facts which give rise to a causa of action for relief from a constitutional or statutory viola-

(d) Whatever statutory provision may be made to permit an individual defendant to raise an affirmative defense that he acted within the scope of his official duties, in good faith and with a reasonable belief that the action he took was lawful, the committee believes that to insure relief to persons injured by governmental intelligence activity this defense should be available solely to individual defendants and should not extend to the Government. Moreover, tha defense should not he evailable to bar injunctions against individual defendants.

Criminal Penalties Should Be Enacted

Recommendation 92-The committee believes that criminal penalties should apply, where appropriate, to willful and knowing violations of statutes enacted pursuant to the domestic intelligence recommendations.

Recommendation 93-Congress should either repeal the Smith Act (18 U.S.C. 2385) and the Voorhis Act (18 U.S.C. 2386), which on their face appear to authorize investigation of "mere advocacy" of a political ideology, or amend those statutes so that domestic security investigations are only directed at conduct which might serve as the basis for a constitutional criminal prosecution under Supreme Court decisions interpreting these and related statutes.

Recommendation 94—The appropriate committees of the Congress should review the Espionage Act of 1917 to determine whether it should be amended to cover modern forms of foreign espionage, including industrial, technological or economic espionage.

Recommendation 95-The appropriate Congressional oversight committees of the Congress should, from time to time, request the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct audits and reviews of the intelligence activities of any department or agency of the United States affected by the Domestic Intelligence Recommendations, For such purpose, the Comptroller General or any of his duly authorized representatives should have access to, and the right to examine, all necessary materials of any such department or agency. Recommendation 96-The committee re-endorses the concept of vigorous Senate oversight to review the conduct of domestic security activities through a new permanent intelligence oversight

To Play a Best-Played Game Opponent Also Must Play Best

By ROBERT BYRNE

It may appear laughably nbvious to say that winning a best-played-game prize against one of the world's top competitors is a diffi-cult task but this remains true eveo when the strategic conception is absolutely correct and the game is won.

To obtain soch a prize, it is necessary that the np-ponent choose the most rational defense, the nne whose plausibility can be shattered only by scintillating play. The problem is that this critical line will too often be the first that a strong op-ponent will consider and then reject because the flaw in the defense will not escape his

Having determined that he Having determined that he is inevitably beading for a loss, the upponent may despondently pick a far inferior series of moves, which are defeated in a routine way undesarving of a best-played-game prize.

A look at the encounter between Lajos Purtisch and Bent Larsen in the fourth round of the Las Palmas International Tournament will round of the Las Palmas In-ternational Tournament will show this happening. Playing 3. B-NS and 4...0-0 against the English Opening has the drawback that White, by 5 P-QR3, BxN; 6 QxB, obtains the bishop pair while retaining a flexible pawn structure. Portisch was soon able to get in 14 P-B5, ensuring that the position would not become blocked.

Portisch's 20 B-R3, bringing his unopposed QB to bear on the black QP—the anchor of the black center-was not as innocuous as it seemed. After the game, Larsen remarked that it was vital for him to bave unpinned his OP by 20 ... KR-QI so that Portisch's 21 N-Q2 could have been answered by 21

25 PxR, NxKP, which was intended to yield a pawn and pressure against the white king position.

But Portisch sharply wrecked the plan by the cnunter-sacrifice 26 Q-Q3!, leading, after 29 Q-K3, to an ending totally dominated by the white QB, despite White's being a pawn down.

Portisch'a profound conception had centered on the critical line 29...Q-QB2; 30

Stayman Foursome Leading Bridge: In the Grand National Final

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

A foursome headed by Sam Stayman of New York holds a commanding lead going into the second half nf the New York Grand Na-tional final tonight, Play will begin at 6:30 P.M. at the Barclay Bridge Club, 75-35 31st Avenue, Jackson Heights, Queens.
This is one of the few occasions oo which bldding screens are used: Players cannot see each other during the bidding and the possibil-ity that players will accidentally gain improper information from their partners' de-meanor or speed is reduced almost to zero.

In the first half of the match, played Monday night at the Cavendish Club, 680
Madison Aveoue, the Stayman team, which includes
Martin Schelnberg, Matt
Grannvetter and Jerry SbaLossty built up a lead of 42 kofsky, built up a lead of 43 32 deals. Their opponents are Harold Lilie of Woodmere, I.I.; Harry Stappenbeck of Uniondale, L.I., and Ken Lebensold and Dave Berkowitz of New York City.

The Stayman team gained beavily on the diagramed deal, when their opponents misjudged the situatino at the end of a confusing competitive auction. The East-West hidding shown might seem to bave been the victim of some typographical accident, out was in fact due to an unusual convention. Shakofsky and Grannvetter, sitting East and West, were using a "simple" version of a system that Granovetter helped to develop and with which be has had great sucwhich be has had great success. Two diamonds promised either a weak two-bid in a majnr suit, or a normal opening with 2-2-4-5 or 2-2-5-4 distribution. This four-pronged maneuver keeps everynne guessing for a round nr so of bidding.

MEDICAL NEMESIS. The Expropriation of Health, By Ivan Illich. 294 pages. Pantheon. $6.95.

It is the doctors who are making us sick —"the medical establishment has become a major threat to health"—argues Ivan IIlich, megacritic, in his compactly written, heavily footnoted, highly articulate po-lemic, "Medical Nemesis: The Expropria-tion of Health." We are experiencing an epidemic of iatrogenesis (from latros, the Greek word for "physician," and genesis, or "origin"), meaning illness caused by doctors. Which argument, viewed in a narrow perspective. may sound outrageous. For although In the part of his book called "Clinilatrogenesis" Mr. Illich goes so far as to claim that "the effec-tiveness of medical intervention la comhating" both infectious and non-

"questionable" (mainfectious diseases is jor diseases such as tuberculosis, cholera, dysentery, and typhoid "peaked and dwindled outside the physicians' cootrol"; new killers inevitably replace old ones; the rise in human life expectancy can be attributed more to environmental improvements than to the "defeat" of disease), Mr. Illich's position here is not so overwhelming as to prevent us from getting our next strep throat swabbed, our next broken bone set and our next pregnancy monitored as closely as medical science will permit.

Continuing Critique

But it is not in a narrow perspective that Mr. Illich ultimately views the medi-cal establishmeot, Indeed, further along in his book he concedes that many sorts of medical attention, including "judiciously selected complex services, could . . . fit loto a truly modern culture that fostered self-care and autonomy." It is rather with "second-level introgenesis" that he is most concerned—with "social introgenesis," conceroed—with "social iatrogenesis," wheo health policies reinforce an industrial organization that geoerates ill-health," and with "cultural and symbolic iatro-genesis," "when medically spoosored hehavior and delusions restrict the vital autonomy of people by undermining their competeoce in growing up, caring for each other, and aging, or when medical intervention cripples personal responses to paio, disability, impairment, anguish, and death." ("Dying has become the ultimate form of consumer resistance," writes Mr. Illich with typical pungency at the end of a marvelously pithy history of humankind's evolving attitude toward death.)

In fact, ultimately "Medical Nemesis" must be read as another installment in a continuing critique of industrial society that Ivan Illich, who was born in Vienna,

As he writes near the conclusion of the present volume, "Like time-consuming ac-celeration, stupefying education, self-destructive military defense, disorienting information, or unsettling housing projects, pathogenic medicine is the result of industrial overproduction that paralyzes aotono-

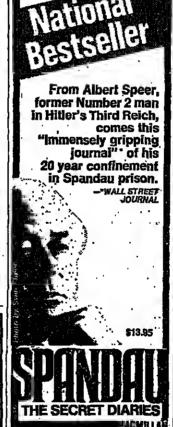

And this critique must in turn be read in the light of Mr. Illich's personal cos-mology, which is of an Attic disposition and holds that when man, driven by greed (pleonexia) and unbounded presumption (hubris), steps beyond the limits that the gods have set for him, divine vengeance is visited on him in the form of Nemesis. 'Modern nemesis is the material monster born from the overarching industrial dream." 'Medical nemesis" is what Mr. Illich calls the "self-reinforcing iatrogenic loop of negative institutional feedback" that now threatens to strangle us.

Cautious Prescriptions

Seen in this broader perspective, is Mr. Illich's argument sufficiently scary to make us stop calling in the doctor? Ohvi-ously not. Nor would Mr. Illich necessarily want us to. Though 'Medical Nemesis does remain a muckraking polemic for all its breadth of perspective, Mr. Illich is cautious in his prescriptions, and warns us emphatically of the risks of sbort-sighted protest. "By joining together, coosumers do have power to get more for their money: welfare bureacracies do have the power to reduce inequalities; changes in licensing and in modes of financing can protect the population not only against nonprofessional quacks but also, in some cases, against professional ahuse; money transferred from the production of human spare parts to the reduction of industrial risks does buy more 'health' per dollar. But all these policies, unless carefully qualified, will tend to reduce the externalities created by medicine at the cost of a further increase in medicine's paradoxical counterproduct, its negative effect on health. All tend to stimulate further medicalizatioo." What we really have to do is nothing less than redefine our concept of health, as well as our understanding of the kind of civilization that produces it.

Uotil we do, you can read "Medical Nemesis" and marvel at the light it sheds on the congeries of medical dilemmas that seem to show up every day in the news—the growing incidence of malprac-tice suits, the persistence of rising costs in what is supposed to be an increasingly efficient iodustry, the law courts' deference to the doctors in the case of Karen Anne Quinlan's right to die, the steadily mounting difficulty of defining what exactly death is, the nursing-home scandals the debate over mass inoculation against swine-type flu. It is obvious—even the American Medical Association may recognize it—that Ivan Illich is on to something here.

New Start in Transit

The transit wage agreement, made under the bludgeon of an illegal strike threat four weeks ago, is now a dead letter. Informed by Attorney General Lefkowitz that the proposed cost-of-living adjustments violated the statemandated wage freeze for New York City, Governor Carey has rightly directed that the pact be rewritten to conform to law.

It now becomes the obligation of the Transit Authority and the Transport Workers Union to do what they should have done in the first place: negotiate a pact which the Emergency Financial Control Board can conscientiously certify as representing "an acceptable and appropriate contribution toward alleviating the fiscal crisis of the city." Clear-cut assurances of increased productivity are a necessary accompaniment of any such pact. Even now the public does not know what, if any, such assurances were contained in the original accord.

Carter in Pennsylvania

Is Jimmy Carter headed for a first-ballot victory at Madison Square Garden?.

Running in a four-man field, former Governor Carter achieved victory in the important Pennsylvania primary. Yet Mr. Carter's plurality constituted little more than one-third of the total Democratic vote cast, hardly a conclusive endorsement in itself.

The margin of victory may in part have been accounted for by the money famine suffered by Senator Henry M. Jackson and Representative Morris K. Udall. Because he looks like a winner, Mr. Carter could raise money and make up for the sudden cutoff of Federal matching funds, while his opponents were less successful in doing so. To that extent, Congress's irresponsible dawdling over the revision of the campaign finance law was a factor in Tuesday's outcome,

But Mr. Carter still achieved an impressive victory, particularly in winning the higgest share of the delegates. By his own campaigning and with the help of an improvised volunteer organization, he overcame whaton paper-was a formidable coalitioo of labor unions and political machines behind Senator Jackson. The former Georgia Governor has ooce again shown that he has the ability to evoke favorable interest from voters across the political spectrum, and to do well in the inner city and in suburbs, among farmers, factory workers, and voters in small towns.

The major negative conclusion from the Pennsylvania vote concerns the weakness of Senator Jackson's campaign. He failed to arouse the contagious personal enthusiasm needed to transform his formal organizational support into an effective political force. He is respected and admired as a knowledgeable public servant, but he seems to generate no excitement.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey is much better at stirring. the enthusiasm of audiences. If Senator Humphrey had been on the ballot in Pennsylvania, he might have won decisively. But voters make choices among real candidates and Mr. Humphrey has consistently refused to enter the primaries. His prospects now depend upon his skill at political in-fighting and only indirectly on his popular appeal.

Governor Carter is well-positioned to survive any guerrilla warfare on the long march to Madison Square Garden in July. He is not only running in the primaries and winning them but he is doing so because he has intelligence, imagination, and superb political instincts. The qualities that have brought him so far are hardly likely to fail him now.

End of the Affair

When a mistake has been made, only a forthright apology can heal tha wound. Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller made a serious and uncharacteristic mistake recently when he casually impugned the patriotism of two members of Senator Henry M. Jackson's staff at a private meeting with Georgia Republicans.

The affair was all the more curious inasmuch as Mr. Rockefeller has long been personally acquainted with one of the individuals whom he maligned. It is impossible to determine whether he was expressing genuine concern about the possibility of Soviet infiltration of Capitol Hill ataffs, giving vent to personal resentment at Senator Jackson's attacks on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, trying to score points with his conservative audience, or acting upon some mixture of all three motives.

What matters is that the Vice President has looked squarely at his mistake and sought to undo it. His handsome public apology hrings this curious affair to an

Virgin Islands Tragedy

For anyone who has ever landed at the Harry S. Truman Airport in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, the surprise must be not that a plane crash killed several dozen people the other day, but that this airport has not been the scene of many more accidents and fatalities than have actually occurred.

The basic problem is obvious to the naked eye. It is the combination of a relatively short runway and two hills which stand high and menacing not far beyond tha end of the runway. The margin for pilot error—especially in a high-speed jet-is small, and it is a great tribute to the average skill of pilots landing there that crashes have been few. Yet residents of the Virgin Islands and many visitors have long been uneasy about the basically unsatisfactory situation, and there has been insistent pressure to lengthen the runway, slice off the peaks of the hills, or change the runway's direction, all alternative means of increasing the margin of safety.

Apparently the airport did meet minimum F.A.A. standards and it is true that there was no fatal crash between Dec. 28, 1970, and this week. Nevertheless, the potentialities for trouble were so evident that it is hard to understand why it has been so difficult for Washington to respond to the Virgin Islanders' request for funds needed to improve the safety situation.

The lesson of this airport must raise a sobering question: How many other so-called "marginal" airports are there in this country, where every day every plane landing or taking off plays a kind of Russian roulette with the lives of hoth crewmen and passengers?

Political Jawboning

President Ford certainly ought to be "disturbed"as he says he is-about the 7.9 percent increase for flat-rolled steel announced by the Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corporation. But what he intends to do about it is another matter.

Thus far, all he has done is to say that he wants his Council on Wage and Price Stability to "look into it," a desire that came as news to the price-watchingagency, which has in fact been watching in silent wonder as steel and other industrial prices have begun to move up more sharply with the revival of husiness.

Whatever modest effect Mr. Ford's expression of disturbance moy have on other steel companies—some of which have indicated that they may slightly undercut Wheeling's 8 percent increase—it seems highly improhable that the President would be willing to get into a confrontation with the steel industry now (or ever) as President Kennedy dld in 1962. On that famous occasion, Mr. Kennedy thought he had been betrayed by the steel industry after he had used his influence to hold down the wage settlement to a level that would not oecessitate a significant price increase.

Even Mr. Ford may have some misgivings, following his decision to issue what amounted to an ultimatum to foreign steel producers to accept voluntary quotas oo shipment of certain types of specialty steel to the United States, under threat of imposing compulsory quotas. Mr. Ford's protectionist move, which jeopardizes United States' hopes for open markets for American goods ahroad, dramatizes the danger to consumersand to price stability-of curbs on foreign competition.

It is omioous to see steel prices golog up so sharply so early in the recovery. The steel industry is operating at only 74 percent of capacity. Similar behavior in other industries could cause the recovery to founder well before the economy has climbed back to full capacity and full employment.

The steel industry's leaders say they are simply trying to protect or improve their profits so that steel can play its full part in the recovery-and to do so, steel must pass on its cost increases. The industry would regard it as unfair and damaging for the President to try to "jawbone" down steel prices in the face of rising wage and other costs.

Indeed, in the absence of a firm policy to restrain both wages and prices in industries where either labor or management has strong market power, it is difficult to see what good the President can do by the kind of careful, gentle jawboning he is pursuing. However, he may do himself some good politically; his jawboning may even reassure some people that he is still concerned about inflation, and the steel industry that he isn't in the mood to interfere with its price actions, just so long as they aren't too huge and too soon.

Irrelevance in Rhodesia

Rhodesia'a black nationalist leaders used the right word-"irrelevant"-to describe Prime Minister Ian Smith's transparent move in appointing four tribal chiefs to an otherwise white Cabinet. It has long heen evident that, as his position worsened, Mr. Smith would try to confuse world opinion by bringing compliant blacks into his white minority Government.

Tribal chiefs in Rhodesia are paid Government servants. They have acquiesced cheerfully in oearly every move Mr. Smith has made in the last twelve years to entrench white domination in a country where hlacks outnumber whites, 24 to I. But these traditional figures cannot speak for a black majority that has become increasingly wary of tribal politics and steadily more hostila to a white regime that has traveled far on South Africa's apartheid road,

Indeed, the question in Rhodesia today is whether even Joshua Nkomo, a dedicated but moderate nationalist, can have much impact on a situation that is drifting steadily in the direction of catastrophic racial war. Only one course offers much hope of arresting that drift and preserving the possibility of a peaceful future for Rhodesia that would include a role for its white residents: Mr. Smith must agree to negotiate seriously under a timetable calling for majority rule in two years, as proposed by Britain, vigorously endorsed by Secretary Kissinger and reinforced yesterday by his offer of United States good offices to help effect such a settlement.

By blowing up a Red scare and appealing to racist and reactionary elements in this country, Mr. Smith hopes to sidetrack the "unrelenting opposition" to his white rule that Mr. Kissinger promised in Zambia. Thus it is essential for the Ford Administration to make good another Kissinger pledge: to work for the early repeal of the Byrd Amendment, under which this country imports Rhodesian chrome in violation of United Nations sanc-

There is no more effective way to persuade both black and white Africans that the United States genuinely supports self-determination and majority rule in Rhodesia -and no better way to salvage whatever chance may remain for a peaceful solution in southern Africa.

Sea Law: The 'Appalling' U.S. Concessions Flu Program's Flaw

As one who has followed and participated in the Law of the Sea negotiations for nearly ten years now, I found the concessions on deep-seabed mining outlined by Secretary of State Kissinger earlier this month to be appalling. It should now be obvious to all that the dominant force in developing and implementing U.S. oceans policy. is the Department of Defense.

In its quest for free transit through international straits and high-seas navigational rights within 200-mile economic resource zones, D.O.D. is apparently willing to trade off any other interest of any other segment of American government or industry.

The objectives of insuring a free flow of commerce on the world oceans and mobility for warships of the United States Navy are highly commendabla ooes. However, to acquiesce in price and production controls for deep-seabed minerals, effective coastal-state control over oceanographic research up to 200 miles from the coast and other demands of underdeveloped countries is completely unnecessary

It is absurd to trade away existing rights to obtain still other existing rights.

All of these existing rights could and should be maintained by an assertion of political will on the part of the United States and the backing of that will by the threat or the use of force where necessary. To do otherwise is to engage in a dangerous policy of appeasement toward the third world.

The consequences of a failure of the Law of tha Sea Conference to producea comprehensive and widely accepted treaty are not at all adverse for the United States. Chaos and anarchy will not follow the collapse of this "floating debate," and U.S. interests may well be better served by its demise. The United States should therefore cease its policy of obtaining a Law of the Sea treaty at any price.

Three recent controversies have drawn attention to the need in this country for a new body of law guaranteeing the artist's right to protect the quality of bis creation and to profit fairly from its success: Ken Kesey's battla against the producers of tha film version of "Ona Flew Over tha Cuckoo's Nest," the Monty Python troupe's unsuccessful struggla to keep their work off oetwork television rather than have it censored and cut, and the attempts of two sculptors to withdraw their works from the Whitney Museum rather than have them destructive.

Until this country adopts legislation, preferably on the Federal level, that irrevocably entitles an artist to a minimum percentage of the profits of his work and certain reasonable artistic controls (oo matter how many times it changes hands), books, paintings and dramstic works will continue to be sold like sacks of sugar for whatever price the artist's clout (or lack of clout) can demand at the time of negotiation.

It is a fact little known by the public . thet an artist oormally relinquishes all creative control et the time of sale of a work, that oral promises of excellence are completely unenforceable, and that cash percentages are only received by those with enough busioess clout to enforce them-which

It is possible for an author like Kesey to create a literary work that generates millions of dollars for others, and heva virtually no share in tha financial success of its adaptations. Furthermore, must courts in this

By Erica Jong

American artists speak of so wistfully, If works of art were really valueless in business terms, the law would be fair. But they are not. The truth is that many works of art create great accumulations of wealth. The fact that they so rarely do so for the artistand so often do so for the promoteris a national disgrace.

Ken . Kesey is being penalized because be oegotiated the business exploitation of his book at a time wheo he knew nothing about business, and because the Isw in oo way recognizes his moral right to a say in its production, or a percentage of its success. He should not have to resort to a ruinously expensive and creatively depleting lawsuit in nrder to receiva percent of the profits geoerated by his work; that minimum percentaga should be avery artist's irrevocabla legal right.

The sad fact is that many artists work for a smaller percentage of their creations than the ageots and lawyers who service those same creations—and frequently they have even less to say about their fates. Artists, however, are oot supposed to worry about money. Money is crass, dirty, an unworthy subject of cootemplation for those bent oo spiritual growth. All this may be true. But, much as we bate to admit it publicly, mooey is the equivalent of power and freedom in our culture—and, as the artist turns his bead to the sky to squint at spiritual growth, the promoter picks his pocket. The money that might translate into e studio towork in the time to create another work, e reasonabla amount of peace of mind, goes instead to battalions of Hollywood attorneys, flacks, assistants to assistants, who all live far better off creative work than the creator

But, aside from money, another thema was evident in the Kesey case, and certainly in my own: the pathetic desire of the artist for a little respect.

As I watched Academy Award after Academy Award go to "Cuckoo's Nest," I was struck by the fact that nobody except Milos Forman even thought to mention Kesey. It was as if, having kidnapped his book, the kidnappers now had the delusion that they had created it. Not nnly did they not want to give the artist his financial due, but they did not even want to acknowledge his contribution. So often, in the battles that develop between artists and their self-styled patrons, the crux of the problem is that the promoter envies and despises the artist and wishes that be were somebow not necessary at all. Ofteo the promoter suffers from the delusion that he is really the creator, and the very presence of the artist is eo embarrassment because it gives the lie to his self-delusion.

Artists understandably get bitter about this sort of thing, but their bitterness turns out to be even worse for them than oot protesting at all. Not only do they get the reputatioo for being "litigious," difficult to deal with, prima donnas (merely for wanting what should be theirs by right), but their work itself mey be poisoned by protest. The agger at their owo oppression bas no place to go, so it msy go into self-destruction, self-loathing, depression, or, still worse, into their future works-if they are lucky enough to have future works.

Somehow, we must find better ways of ourturing the people who ourture us.

The Carterwagon Rolls

By William Safire

WASHINGTON, April 28-Jimmy Carter is no longer merely the Demo-cratic front-runner. With Penosylvania in his pocket, be is onw tha likely Democratic Presidential nominee, an Emergence, that bas different effects on several groups:

. 1. The New "Outs." The old Democratic Establishment "Ins" are, at the moment, the new "Outs." They will coalesce to form tha sort of desperate stop-movement that Nelsoo Rockefelier threw together behind William Scranton in 1964 to stop Barry Goldwater, and with tha same meager result.

But the real political purpose of a stop-movement is often not so much to derail a moving bandwagon as to induce its riders to treat kindly with the pols, not yet aboard. The ousted powers need to make a show of strength in order to be able to acquiesce in dignity.

Thus, Mr. Carter's opposition in the Democratic field, now unhorsed, will climb on bopeful Hubert Humphrey. The irony is that this good man, who spent most of his life pushing for too much too soon, should fail at last by entering the lists with too little and too late. However, the respectability of his opposition should cause the tight Carterite inner circle to make room for the new Outs.

2. "The New Ins." Mr. Carter and his people, confronted with the impression of their own inevitability, are likely to adopt new tactics. Having stressed the outsider image, they will now become more absorbent and less worrisome to insiders. They will alternate the stick (you bosses better not gang up) with the carrot (regulars are welcome).

They will be faced with e strategic decision: to reach leftward for a traditional liberal Vice President, like Mo-Udall or Fritz Mondale, or to gamble oo an all-outsider, all-new ticket, with a running mate like keep-it-flowing Gurunor Jerry Brown, (Neither Hubert Humphrey nor Scoop Jackson are likely to be interested in No. 2, oor is Carter likely to bold still for s wild card like Ted Kennedy.)

On previous form, Mr. Carter Is more likaly to play it safe with the wide-spectrum epproach, moving left and to an experieoced legislator, rather than press his sntipolitical strength with another young governor.

3. The Immediats Adversary. The media (or, if you like us, the press) will shift gears to deal with the Emergeoce, Ever since R. W. Apple Jr. of The New York Times reported last year that the Carter campaign was taking hold, the ensuing reaction has ranged from a profound distrust of an unwounded pol jesting at scars to a giee at the prospect of writing about somebody almost as deliciously remote as the departed Richard Nixon.

Now, however, the same seductive mystery turns into "the fuzziness issue." To show that be is oot fuzzy on bread-and-butter issues, Mr. Carter recently issued an economic position paper. It was ignored, of course, as osition pepers are supposed to be: They are inteoded to be tangible evidence of unfuzziness, to be pointed tn in interviews as "thoughtful backup," but not to be examined so soon. After the Emergence, bowever, the press will mine the papers for contradictions for e dangerously new idea.

In his economic paper, for example, Mr. Carter puts forward tha notion that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board be appointed to a term "coterminus with the President's" -not nverlapping, as it is at present, to help insulate the Fed from political

Although giving lip service to the Fed's independence—necessary, whila Burns roams—the Carter plan to give a President "his own chairman" would force the currently independent Fed to share a "joint responsibility" with

ESSAY

Treasury and O.M.B. to issue a "coordinated report that their policies are mutually consistent." Monetary policy, now, wisely decentralized, would be cootrolled more tightly by tha White House in Mr. Carter's politicization.

Such positions are now considered MEGO-my eyes glaze over-but ona day sooo this, and other ideas, will be seized upon as typical of White House power grabs worthy of detailed discussion by a man with a 50-50 chance of going all the way.

4. The Ultimate Adversary. The fact of e center-right, cool Southerner as the Democratic cominee powerfully coocentrates the mind of the would-ba Republican cominee. From Texas to California in the coming month, Ronald Reagan will be making the point that his Southern and Western appeal is needed to turn back Mr. Carter, while Mr. Ford will be stirring up talk of a sun-belted running mate to counter the Carterites.

And who might that be? At private gatherings, Nelson Rockefeller-after hinting darkly at Reds under Senatorial beds-has been warning his friends about s tall, silver-haired Texan that be thinks is plotting to succeed him ss Vice President.

Considering the way Republican cooveotions react to Rockefeller desires, it could be that the Carter Emergence could well be followed by the comeback of John Connally,

Toward a healthier economic climate

Poems by Emperor Hirohito Subsidizing consumption, penalizing investment And Empress Nagako

Those who are opposed to aconomic growth appear to have gone underground. The American paople, having had a nasty whiff of what aconomic stagnation means, are not buying this recipe for suicide.

The question now before the nation is how to get people back to work in productive jobs end how to keep creating new jobs so we can get back to opening up greater opportunities for women, for blacks and other minorities, and for young people from ell beckgrounds.

The U.S. labor force is still growing, end will continue to for years, despita the declining birth rate. Reducing today's high rate of unamployment will require more repid growth in the economy. And growth will depand in large part on how much capital is available for investment.

The bast way to sustain healthy economic growth over eny considerable period of time-is capital Investment by privata business in new plants and equipment. By "healthy," we mean sound, responsible growth-not mindless, explosive expansion.

Productivity and economic miracles

Japan enjoyed the most rapid iocreasa in living standards of any of the major industrialized nations In the 14 years through 1973 because the productiv-Ity of its work force-the output per hour worked-Increased 10% a year. In Garmany and France-two other countries that have achieved economic miraclee in recent years-productivity rose nearly 6% a year in that period. Evao Graat Britain meneged an everage annual increase of over 4%. Thosa gains were achievad primarily through sustained investmant of privete capital.

And tha U.S.? Our everage productivity Increased about 2.5% a year, which is pretty dismal. Why so low? Largaly because not anough money was spent here for naw plants and equipment -the lasst, in relation to Gross Netional Product, of any major industrialized nation.

in the long run, an economy's performance depends on a good balance batween consumption and investment. It ie possibla to have an excess of aither, at the expense of the other. The problem in the U.S.

economy is that tor a good many years it has been weighted disproportionately toward consumption rather than toward savings or investment-probably more so then env other industrielized country. The differenca is fundamental in its lang-tarm affacte on

The U.S. has been subsidizing consumption at the expansa of capital investment. If we keep on this way, there will eventually be less and less to consume, bacauee our productivity will drop still more. Lower productivity meens less-attractive prospects for earnings. This will further discourage the enormous investment required to produce the goods end services wa naed.

The U.S. "consumption bias"

Our best long-term hope for licking infletion and markedly reducing unamploymant lies in graatly Incraased capital investment to increase productivity. But our government's heavy taxetion of tha returns trom capital-tha "consumption blas" built into our aconomy-is divarting those resources to consumption and dampening capital inveetment.

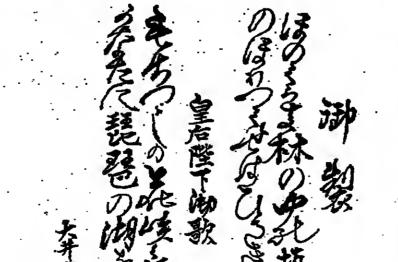

What'e called "depreciation" is a good exemple of this biae. Depreclation is the government'e timetable that decidee how long it will take a company to recover the money it invests to build a plent or to buy new machinas. In the U.S., a company can recover only 72% of its investment in the first three years. But in France, tha figure Is 90%; in Swedan, 96%; In Canada and Great Britain, 100%.

The U.S. rata of capitel recovery is thus emong the slowest of all developed countries. More-favorabla dapreciation schedules would halp Amarican companies put togethar the investment cepital that benefits all of ue.

A low leval of private capital Investment meens slow economic growth, which maans high unemploymant. A high leval of private capitel investment means rapid economic growth-which, as we said, can ba rasponsible growth, not haedlees growth. And repid economic growth of the right sort can mean higher employment end graater opportunity for everyone.

Britain's Crisis Is Tourist's Bonanza

LONDON, April 28—John Rasmussen, an 18-year-old Dane, was sitting on the steps of the British Museum. He took a plastic-wrapped egg and tomato sandwich from his bag. The sandwich cost him eight pence, or bare-ly 15 cents. "It's very cheap.

to go out eating bere," Mr. Rasmussen said. "Everything is much cheaper than in Den-François Durrand teaches elementary school in France. He is leading a busload of pupils around London's historical landmarks, and he is wearing a brand new Burberry raincoat. The price, converted from pounds, was $124, or half what Mr. Durrand said he would have to pay in Paris. Further, it cost him 20 percent less here than it would have a year ago, even though the price in pounds is higher.

A Bargain Basement

Mrs. Stephen Esposito of Valley Stream, Long Island, works for Scandinavian Airlines, a job whose fringe ben-efits included a free trip to London last weekend for her and Mr. Esposito. At Har-rods, the high-priced Knightsbridge Department store, she bought Staffordshire porcelain figures and Royal Doulton china mugs. The mugs cost $8, which she said was a third of the New York

Britain has become one of the bargain basements of Europe, a striking change from the day two years ago when The Daily Telegraph printed a headline saying, "Americans cannot afford to visit expensive Britain," and London seemed braced to displace Paris, Stockholm and Geneva as Europe's most expensive city.

The change has come about because of the agonies of the British pound. The pound has become so cheap that visitors arriving with marks, francs, kronor and dollars find they often spend less here than they did a year ago and less than many of them, espe-cially tha Europeans, spend today at home.

Turbulence in national cur-rencies has also helped make the traditionally low-priced Latin countries—Italy, Spain and Portugal—cheaper than they were a year ago, when their inflation, like Britain's, threatened to close the gap between their prices and the rest of Europe's.

The Easter flood of European visitors to Italy this year was enough to provoke one newspaper there to call tourism "one of the few good things economically that has happened to Italy recently." Germans and Swiss, chided in the past for making do on box lunches, packed the res-taurants and top hotels this Museum tickets in Rome have cost 200 lire for more than a year, hut over that period the price in American currency has dropped from 32 cents to 23 cents. Tha cost of a double room in the comfortable Hotel Raphael in Rome, near the Piazza Navona, has risen from 30,000 lire to 35.000, hut in dollars, it bas dropped from 48 to 40. A good pair of women's shoes in Italy costs $20, half the price of equivalent French shoes in Paris.

But despite the hargains in Italy and the shot-in-the-arm the country witnessed over Easter, kidnappings, strikes and political upheaval have frightened off many tourists, especially the sought-after Americans, who spend more per day in Europe than anyone but the Arahs. Spain and Portugal are suffering for similar reasons. Tourism in Portugal is running at half the prerevolutionary levels.

Britain, too, has had to live with violence. Certainly the bomhings a few months ago of prominent hotels and restaurants repelled many tourists, but the more recent, pronounced plunge of the pound, from $2.02 in February to $1.83 now, seems to have helped many forget.

5ix times a day, hundreds of Frenchmen board a ferry known as the Free Enterprise VIII at Calais for the 90-minute Channel crossing to Dover. More are coming than' ever before for this time of year, and an official of the ferry company said most come just to buy groceries.

Customers for Newcastle

Norwegians, meanwhile, have been spilling into the dreary port city of New-castle. Two or three thousand a week make the 20hour crosslog from Bergen and Oslo to spend two or three days shopping in Newcastle. They huy clothing, food, small appliances, just about all consumer goods. "You name it, they huy it," sald Hans J. Hostvedt, and agent to the shipping come

Carnahy 5treet in Loodon is a tarnished memory of the Beatles and miniskirt era, its multicolored sidewalk smeared with litter and chewing gum. But it is awash these days with teen-agers from Germany, Scandinavia and the Low Countries, They, say blue jeans and phonograph records cost half what they do at home, although the prices are similar to those in the United States

"Your wool products are less," said Mrs. William J. Henderson of Hemmet, Calif a retirement community and prohably the world's largest mobile home development. Mrs. Henderson, who is here for five weeks' vacation, said needlepoint yarn cost less here than in Hemmet, while Mr. Henderson said steak dinners cost more. Shetland sweaters are easily available in London for $10, half the New York price. .

Big spenders all seem to gravitate to Harrods. Some Americans there recently seemed put off hy the prices of such well known luxury goods as Wedgwood china and Waterford crystal, which though lower than a few months ago when bought with dollars are still a costly way to set a table.

Still It's Not Cheap

"I suppose it's cheaper," said Clifford Bowman of Montpelier, Vt., "but it's not cheap. We saw some porce-Jain figures for $20, $30, $40." He didn't huy any.

Britain's new hargains can be elusive Dr. and Mrs. Ray-mond Crane of Woodbridge, Conn, are here on "a cheap family trip." They are happy with what they paid for leather coats and Royal Worcester ovenware, but annoyed that they nearly got taken in a leading restaurant. It tried to give them last year's $2.40 exchange rate for their traveler's checks, a quick, 24 percent extra charga for their meal. They paid cash instead. Indeed, many British hotels, like restaurants, willing-ly accept travelers checks, hut they rarely offer the kind of rate that any bank around the corner will.

There is another kind of complaint. To keep costs down, the Bank of England is replacing pound notes less often than in the past, and last week a union official in Leeds complained that the notes being issued to pensioners were barely touchab-

"They are horrible and filthy and could be a health hazard," he said. "Some of the notes smell and some are

re-entry into the United States grain market with the purchase of 3.1 million tons of corn and 300,000 tons of wheat from three suppliers, the Department of Agriculture announced. Tha value of the deals was estimated at more than $400 million. More sales are expected, a department official said. [Page I, Column 6.]
The Supreme Court of India upheld the right of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Government to imprison political opponents without court hearings. The ruling was a milestone in the dismantling of India's democratic institutions, starting with the declaration of a state of emergency last June. To her opponents, especially those who have been jailed in the last 10 months, it came as a major defeat. The court held that the traditional right of habeas corpus was suspended for the duration of the state of emergency, which can last as long as the Government wishes. [1:5-7.]

A sharply worded report by the Senate 5elect Committee on Intelligence summarizing its examination of government spying within the country found that intelligence agencies, particularly the Federal Bureau of Investigation, repeatedly violated the laws. It found unconstitutional investigations of the political activities of hundreds of thousands of citizens, many of them law-abiding. It rebuked the agencies for investigating far too many people, often for the wrong reasons, for regularly using illegal or questionable techniques, and for acting largely without the scrutiny or knowledge of Presidents and Attorneys General. It called the four-decade pattern neither partisan nor the product of "a few willful men" but an inevitable result of the "axcessive" growth of executive power unchecked by Congress. [1:6-8.]

Senetor Hubert H. Humphrey appeared poised for a limited effort to halt Jimmy Carter short of the Democratic Presidential nomination, but few even among his friends thought he had much chance. Mr. Humphrey promised a quick decision to a committee to seek delegates for him. [1:3-5.] Voter surveys indicate that Mr. Carter and Mr. Humphrey-to whom the Democratic Presidential race has apparently narrowedrepresent cootras ing streams within the Govarnor Carey, acting on a legal opinion of the State Attorney General, said the New York City transit workers' contract would have to he revised before it could be approved by the Emergency Financial Control Board. Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Attorney General, had advised him that the cost-ofliving raises in the two-year contract were illegal. The opinion threatens turmoil in the transit pact and also in the other city labor contracts. Mr. Lefkowitz cited the state'a wage-freeze law. [1:I-2.]

Ogden R. Reid has decided to resign as State Commissioner of Environmental Conservation and probably will make his an-nouncement today. Close associates said he had written a letter of resignation to Govarnor Carey saying he could not continue to head the department "in spite of our accomplishments." He was said to have cited the way in which disagreements had been publicized as well as severe external pres sures. A spokesman for Mr. Carey indicated the department had a "disloyal" hureaucracy, "disaffected from Reid," [1:1-2.]

The Beame administration is planning to establish profit-motivated garbage-collecting cooperatives in two existing sanitation districts as part of an effort to find new management techniques for the city. An even more radical effort will be to form an overall management control system so that the Mayor can retreat from the traditional "crisis management" technique. This approach would cnable him to measure the performance of his commissioners and their ageocles through regular reports. [1:1-2.]

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Svea. Fraser never had any doubts about her busband's ultimate business success. Her fears were of a different order. "I was concerned at what

Over the last few months, her fears have dissipated, if not evaporated. Mrs. Fraser and 21 other women have been accompanying their husbands to a weekly class on "The Executive Family" offered to second-year students at the Harvard Business School. There are also two busbands in the class, accompanying wives who are business school students.

"I was delighted that someone shared my concern at what can happen to a successful family," said Mrs. Fraser, the mother of a 2½-year-old daughter. "It may sound strange but it was a relief to know that there is something to be afraid of . . . that it isn't just an imagined-

"Nobody in America would challenge the idea of families, but what bappens is that people take marriage and lamilies for granted," Dr. Greiff noted. "I think business is concerned about it but, understandably, business is concerned with profits. It's not business's responsibility to worry about fami-lies. It's the individual'a responsibility to look at his or

Dr. Greiff's course, 16 weekly classes of about two hours each, is confined to 25 couples (one spouse must be a second-year business school student). There is a wide variation in age, background and previous busines experience, a fact made pos-sible because there are almost three applicants for every class opening.

Problems Are Listed Dr. Greiff, who spent two years in the Navy and two years studying psychiatry at Harvard before joining the staff in 1968, centers dis-cussions of problems most likely to be encountered by upwardly mobile couples.

Among them are the possible conflict of dual careers in a family, the question of priorities in husiness and personal life, the trauma of divorce or job loss, the question of whether or not to have children, difficulties encountered in relocating, and problems engendered by a spouse who is constantly "This is not direct therapy

The most important person at the occasion, held one floor above the America's Cup in its glass case at the chib on West 44th Street, was Pelle Petterson, Sweden's one-man band. Petterson has designed the new yacht, he is the overseer of its construction and, fullowing launching this September, will be its skipper.

He has considerable cre-dentials, including two Olympic medals, as a Star and Soling skipper. The Twelve will be about three times as gram since Sweden's challenge in the fall of 1974, a month after Courageous completed the last defense against the Australian South-Cross. He collected all the information he could find or buy about 12-Meter design and made extensive use of tank tests with 1:10 and 1:5 models, meaning 6½-foot and 13-foot Twelves.

Computer Is Used

Petterson was ecstatic about the work done by a Volvo computer in refining design lines, exotic effort probably not available to Ted Hood and Olin Stephens, the American naval architects commissioned to build two yachts to defend the cup.

The consortium has also acquired Columbia, the Stephens-designed Twelve that defended the cup is 1958; and Petterson and a crew began sailing her this month. Columbia and the new yacht will start match racing this fall. Next June the new aluminum hulled vessel will be shipped here and in August elimination races will be held off Newport, R.L., to decide the challenger.

There are four challenging nations but only three com-mitted to a new boat. Australia where Alan Bond of Southern Cross has stated he will try again; France, try-

It continues tomor-row but the Lakeland and his handler, Ric Chashoudian, are flying back this afternoon, immediately after they have gaited around the ring for the final time.

"He's the greatest dog I've ever handled," said Chashoudian, who has been show-ing dogs for 30 years. "The Baron's never let me down. He won at Redding [Calif.] when the temperature was 115, while another time he came through in a snow-storm. John Riggins has told the Jets he will not sign with them until he finds out how valuable the rest of the Natlooal Football League thinks

Riggins, the New Yorkers' curly-heired iconoclast, is the best running back availabla as a free agent. His term of employment with the Jets officially ends at midnight to-

He is especially attractive to other teams now because the so-called Rozelle rule is in limbo. Any team that signs him can do so without having to compensate the Jets.

"He hasn't lost any ne-gotiating leverage with me." Al Ward, the club's general maneger, said yesterday. "I have his word thet we'll get the last shot at him." It may he an expensive shot. Riggins played out his option last year and took a calculated risk that worked. Ha becama the first Jet to rush for 1,000 yards. His pay

"I'm thinking of a compensation for John in six fig-ures," said Ward. Riggins most likely is thinking of $200,000 or more a season. In a salary discussion once with Ward, he told him:

"How can you offer me so little when Joe Namath is making more than $400,000?" "Namath," replied Ward, "is a special case."

Ward disclosed thet the "He and Riggins were our big ones," he said, alluding to the unsigned players. "I to the unsigned players. "I think if we hring Phil along, he'll be able to play 14

Wise, a free safety, has always heen impressiva, but often gets hurt. He had a chronic groin pull that Dr. James Nicholas, the team or-thopedist, treated by putting him in traction. Hs is supposed to be cured oow.

Ward doesn't immediately expect to sign Low Piccone, the dashing kick-return-utility man who had one of tha Jets' few positive statistics

"I've given up oo him," said Ward. "He's going to find out what the market is. I think he'll coma back." Ward was optimistic on getting Rich Sowells a cornerback, to sigo. He meets tomorrow with Matt Snell, Sowell's agent. But he was not so optimistic about Rich Lewis, the linebacker, saying, "he will be on the market."

Braves Win, Even Celtic Series, 2-2

-Randy Smith's 25-foot jumper with three seconds remaining gave the Buffalo Braves a 124-122 victory over the Boston Celtics tonight, tying their four-of-seven-game National Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series at two games apiece.

The Celtics had tied the score with seven seconds left when Dave Cowens tipped in his missed jump shot. Boston had the last shot of the Eastern Division semifinal contest, but Don Nelson's hurried jumper from the baseline was partly blocked by John Shumate. Game 5 will be played

Friday night in Boston. While Smith's shot won half performance of Ernla DiGregorio that enabled Buffalo to offset a one-point halftime deficit and leed most of the second half. Di-Gregorio, a 6-foot guard who won a starting job on his play in Buffalo's victory over Boston Sunday, netted 18 of his 20 points after intermission and directed tha Buffalo attack.

It was DiGregorio's first start since Feb. 27, 27 games ago, and he responded with Il fourth-quarter points while the N.B.A.'s top scorer, Boh McAdoo, was on tha bench with five personsl

McAdoo. who returned briefly but fouled out with 1:11 left, wound up with a game-high 30 points.
With 2:38 remaining and the Braves ahead by 3 points, Nelson pulled Boston within I with a short jumper. Twenty seconds later, McAdoo missed two free throws, but Jim McMillian came through with a basket. However, Jo Jo White, who hed 28 points, made one of two free throws for Boston, then Cowens tied game at 120-120 with a basket and McAdoo fouled

With 54 seconds remaining, Buffalo's John Shumate sank two free throws, but Cowans came back with his tip, setting the stage for Smith's

Smith finished with 28 poiots, Shumate 20 eod Mc-Millian 18. Cowens led Bostoo with 29 and Nelson

John Hevilicak, who missed the previous two games because of an ankle injury, wes saw no action.

Buffalo jumped to e 3934 lead et the end of the first period as McAdoo struck for 14 points and McMillian collected 11, as did Cowens. The Braves forged a 50-46

lead in the second period, theo sew the score tied with about six minutes remaining as Cowens sank a pair of

Buffalo responded with an 8 - point spree, with Smith getting 4 and Ken Charles and Dale Schlueter 2 apiece for a 58-50 lead. In the next couple of minutes, though, Nelson picked up 7 points on five frea throws and a baskat to cut the Buffalo lead

Boston put togather 7 points, 4 by White and 3 hy Kevin Stscom, to gaio a 3-point edge seconds hefore Smith's baskat just before the first half ended cut tha Celtics' edge to 68-67.

Jockeys Give Opinions

By MICHAEL STRAUSS Three regular inhabitants of Aqueduct's jockey colony Braulio Baeza, Angel Cordero, and Jorge Velasquez-are scheduled to ride in the Kentucky Derby, Despite the proximity of their important dates, however, they con-tinued to do business as usual yesterday at the Big A.
The three jockeys will ride

here again today and then leave tonight for Churchill Downs. Baeza, last year's leading rider in the matter of earnings in the United States with $3,695,198, holds a powerful hand in the annual 11/4 mile classic. The Panamanian is the regular rider of Honest

Pleasure. Between yesterday's races at Aqueduct, 10 of the jockey room's regulars were asked for their opinions about the outcome of the Derby. All but Cordero and Jean Cruguet, the French rider, displayed strong leanings toward Hon-est Pleasure.

Cordero, averring he was a strong believer in loyalty, said his mount in the Derby (Bold Forbes) would win. Cruguet said he felt E. C. Cashman's Elocutionist might pull an upset.

"This colt," Cruguet said can come from behind and has enough speed to stay close to the early leaders and I also feel you can't count Play the Ped out of it.

Velasquez, who is to ride Elmendorf's Play the Red, the colt trained by John Campo, was not so high over his "I don't think anyone feels my horse has a chance going into this race," said Velas-quez. "If I had my choice of mounts, I guess you'd know who I'd pick. I just hope my horse has what it takes to amaze everyone." Other comments by jockeys were as follows:

Ron Turcotte Play the Red has lots of stretch run, but Hooest Pleasure can do everything. Eddie Maple—I can't think past Honest Pleasure, but anything can happen in a Derby. I think this will be a two-horse race, with Bold Forbes in the No. 2 spot. Mike Venezia-I have to go for Honest Pleasure beca of his consistency, but don't overlook Bold Forbes. His race here at Aqueduct two weeks ago in the Wood was outstanding.

Johnny Rusne Gotta go to Hooest Pleasure. Seen him run in the Flamingo in Flori-da and he certainly looks the

Brooks Robinson, the Golden Glove at third base for the Baltimore Orioles, has had a difficult time at the plate in his 22d major league sea-

Earl Weaver, Baltimore's manager, has refused to be pinned down as to how long he will tsick with Robinson's weak bat. Robinson said, "If I don't hit. I'll come out. If It start hitting, I'll stay in. t's as simple as that."

Last night in Memorial Stadium, Robinson hit and the Orioles gained their second straight victory over the California Angels, this one by a 4-2 count.

Robinson, who will celebrate his 39th birthday oo May 18, cracked a run-scoring double to cap a three-run fifth inning and that was good enough to give Keo Holtzman his second triumph in two decisions.

Holtzman, who scattered eight hits while fanning four and walking three, lifted his career record against the Angels to 11-4.

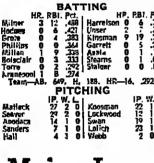

The Orioles cracked four doubles in their 12-hit attack two coming in the first tack, two coming in the first inning, when Bob Grich drove in the first run with a grounder. California tied the count on a run-scoriog double by Rusty Torres in the fifth, but Baltimore came back to chase Gary Ross (0-3) in its half of

Paul Blair's sacrifice, a stolen base (one of four off Andy Etchebarren, a former teammate), a walk to Grich

> AMERICAN LEAGUE Brewers 4, White Sox 1

AT CHICAGO—Don Money singled home two runs in the third inning then scored on Robin Yount's double as the Brewers gained their third victory in a row. Wilbur Wood had retired the first seven batters that faced him the Brewers broke The outburst sent Wood to this third defeat in decisions. Milwaukee added its final run in the ninth on a single by Henry Aaron, a double by Sixto Lezcano and Gorman Thomas's sacrifice bunt. The winoer was Bill Travers, who went eight innings to record his second triumph without

Tigers 8, A's 1

AT DETROIT—The Tigers completed a two-game sweep of the A's as Dave Roberts pitched his second two-hit game of the season and his third victory in three starts. Detroit erupted for six runs in the third inning at the ex-pense of Mike Norris and Dick Bosman. Roberts allowed only a scratch single by Bert Campaneris in the third and Ken McMullen's pinch-hit double in the ninth, when the A's got their run. Roberts, who lowered his earned-run average to 1.00, said, "I'm off to a better start than I ever anticipated. I don't think I can pitch any better than I did this game.

Indians 9, Twins 0

At Bloomington, Minn.— Dennis Eckersley and Doo Hood combined their efforts for a four-hitter and Rick Manning drove in three runs double in the Cleveland victory. The Indians assaulted four Minnesota pitchers for 14 hits, Bert Blyleveo, the starter and loser (1-2), was tagged for five runs in the first four innings and four more in the fifth. Eckersley. who worked six inoings and

NATIONAL LEAGUE Phillies 7, Reds 6

AT PHILADELPHIA -- Jay Johnstone's two-run double in the first inning and Bob Boone's three-run homer in the fifth carried the Phillies to victory. Singles by Pete Rose and Ken Griffey and Joe Morgan's fourth bomer of the campaign gave the Reds a 3-0 lead in the first. The Johnstone's double and a single by Garry Maddox. Phila-delphia added a run in the secood, then moved in front, 7-3, in the fifth on Boone's homer, his second of the sea-

Cardinals 4, Giants 2 (16 innings)

AT SAN FRANCISCO Doug Clarey, a rookie infielder from nearby Cupertino, Calif., hit a two-run bomer with two out in the 18th in-ning to give the Cardinals the triumph in Candlestick Park. The winning blow, made during Clarey's second major league at bat, came off Mike Caldwell and was his first hit in the majors. Clarey pinch hit for Mike Proly, the fifth St. Louis pitcher, who was credited with his first victory of the season. Cald-well, the fourth Giant pitcher. suffered his third loss in three decisions. John (The Count) Montefusco, the San Francisco starter, struck out 12 batters, the best effort in the maiors this season, and walked none. Montefusco left for a pinch-hitter in the eighth with the score tied, because we were checked so closely we didn't do too much skating. I thought the coach was going to bench us for awhile." But Harris and his linemates form the backbone of the Islanders' power play and Arbour can't afford to yank them. Instead he has to help them get untracked. "I talked to him about it before prac-tice," said Harris. "We've whatever. We didn't seem to too far from his wing," said Gainey, "but when he gets started he's murder to stop."

"We've got to do it to them. We've got to start checking them in their end, bounce them around."

The Peterborough line is also short in the scoring column. "Offensively," said Gainey, "I still don't seem to get into the right position to get a good shot. In junior 1 couldn't shoot the puck. We just didn't practice that." Jarvis, who still wears the maroon leather fraternity jacket that bears the script logo, "Peterborough Petes," felt he also needed work "at getting more of a knack around the net."

But this well-balanced 1975-76 edition of the Canadiens needs the Peterborough more than its offensive. Jarvis and his line mates can leave the scoring to Guy Lafleur, Pete Mahoviich and the other headline-grabbers on the team. Lafleur, who led the league this season with 56 goals and assists, began practice before his teammates this morning. Claude Ruel, director of player development for Montreal, was helping the Montreal, was helping right wing with his shot.

FURTHER NOTICE is hereby given that, in order to analyze in depth the statewide need for additional generating units, additional hearings (Phase II hearings) shall be held, in addition to the initial public hearing to be held before the entire Commission, to investigate the Power Pool's and the electric corporations' load forecasts (including an analysis of fore-. casting methodology and conservation's impact) and capacity additions (including an analysis; of the reserve requirement standard adopted by the Power Pool.) The Commission intends to submit for incorporation in Article VIII proceedings the evidentiary record made in Phase II of this long-range planning proceeding. Testimony for this second phase of hearings shall be prefiled by the New York Power Pool on or before April 30, 1976. Cross-examination of the Pool's witnesses shall commence on Wednesday, June 2, 1976, at 10:00 a.m., to be continued through June 4, 1976, at the offices of this Commission, Empire State Plaza, Albany, New York, with further hearings, if necessary, to commence on Wednesday, June 9, 1976. Commission Staff and Intervenors' testimony shall be prefiled on or before July 16, 1976, and cross-examination of Staff and Intervenors shall commence on Wednesday, August 4, 1976, at 10:00 a.m., to be continued as necessary, at the offices of this Commission, Empire State Plaza, Albany, New York. The time for prefiling and cross-examination of rebuttal testimony, if such testimony is necessary, shall be determined after the commencement of the Phase II hearings. Written comments on the long-range plans may be submitted to Samuel R. Madison, Secretary of the Public Service Commission, Empire State Plaza, Albany, New York 12223, any time prior to July 15, 1976. Persons wishing to make oral comments at the initial phase of public hearings (May 6-7, 1976), including oral comments to supplement or amplify written comments, should notify the Secretary prior to the hearing dates. Within the time available for public comments, priority will be given those who have so notified the Secretary. In order to accommodate all those who wish to be heard, members of the public are requested to limit Questioning of representatives of the various electric corporations at the initial phase of public hearings in this proceeding will be conducted primarily by members of the Commission and its counsel. (212) 460-3416. Because individual proceedings of a judicial nature will be conducted for each proposed major generating facility or transmission line which may be proposed eventually for construction, the scope of this proceeding will not include an in depth inquiry into particular sites for generating facilities or specific routes for transmission lines. Rather, the parties should address their comments to the planning features of the subject presentation, including such aspects as the following:

(1) adequacy of the data; demand forecasts;

adequacy of supply;

(4) generating mix;

(5) adequacy of planned transmission grid; (6) the reasonableness of the assumptions underlying the various projections; (7) the format of the presentation; and

(3) research directions and priocities.

Special to The New York Times LOS ANGELES, April 28gmar Bergman, the Swedish film director, said today that he planned to make at least two films in the United States and that he would like. to direct on Broadway and possibly on American televi-

Royal Ballet Triumphs in 'Month in Country

George Balanchine once postulated a useful ballet law namely that "in dance there are no mothers-inlaw." What he meant, of course, was that dance lacks the specifics of drama-we see a man and a woman dance together, but are they meant to be friends or lovers, man and wife or brother and sister? Or are they—as Balanchine pertinently put it -a man and his mother-in-

In general terms, Balan-chine is right. But once in a while a literary ballet of genius comes along that is so perfect, so exquisitely ar-ticulate, that rules fall away, and you just gasp at the oarraive, the poetry, the evoca-tion of time and place and, yes, even the definition, as it were, of mothers-in-law.

It so happens that there are no mothers-in-law in Sir Frederick Ashton's new bal-let, "A Month in the Coun-try," which was given its American premiere by the Royal Ballet at the Metro-politan Opera House on Tuesday night. Yet there are people in a landscape—a land-scape of space, period and time. And it is fantastically beautiful. It is a ballet about love, stifid love, broken love, but love of a kind of pasbut love of a kind of pas-cionate intensity that is al-most unreal—it flashes, it finiters, it has little to do with love itself, but is the heartbreak of a love suspect-ed, discovered, yet unfulfilled.

Ashton is an old master. He has slightly reshaped the original Turgenev play— much to its advantage, incidentally and has given the choreography a sort of ef-fervescent vitality that dis-turbs the idyllic mood of love in a cold climate.

It is remarkable how he uses the classical vocabulary as if it were literally lan guage. At times he actually seems to make dance talkseems to make take take and talk so sweetly, with the soft murmurings of English lyric poetry. The story is simple. A Russian country house around the middle of the last century. Summer. Lassitude. Strawberries and heat haze in a short season.
A husband, Yslaev, simply very much in love with his wife, a vivacious woman on the verge of matronhood, Natalia, and they have a young son, Kolia.

Natalia owns an admirer, Rakitin, who is not a lover precisely, but a convenient, witty, dependable substitute. There is also Vera, Natalia's ward, a high-spirited young girl into this menage enters a sindent, Beliaev, who has been brought as a tutor for Kolia, And suddenly the fabric of their world dissolves. What is so interesting about the ballet is the maner in which Ashton makes every choreographic gesture count. He is quite astonish-ngly inventive here. A dance choreographic gesture for a boy bouncing a ball and . two precisely contrasted love tucts, for the tutor with the young girl and then with the later love with the dark pungency of oostalgia, show how the classic technique can be perfectly expressive.

Then there is the whole atmosphere of the ballet-it appears to take place on a startled summer afternoon, with events swiftly intercutting like a movie.

The choice of music is perfect. It is Chopin. Chiefly it has been taken from the Variations on Mozart's "La ci darem" from "Figaro," which, interestingly, has its own sexual overtones, but there are other Chopin pieces as well and the entire score has been expertly arranged by John Lanchbery. The set-

Trevelyan Oman have a spaciousness that almost rims against the bourgeois nature of the story, but somehow works. The taste has that finite quality of precision that marks out the ballet. And so do the performances.

Lynn Seymour was always going to be a great ballerina who seemed to be leaving decision dangerously late. She has made it. Her Natalia is pure magic, and there is not a woman in the world who could dance it with quite that mixture of ecstasy, despair and experi-ence. And the special bore-dom of a Madama Bovary. Anthony Dowell as the Tutor, flashing smile, dazzling

We also had the American Millan's "Rituals," obscure, even obscurantist and nullifyingly boring piece of Jap-onaiserie set, for some pre-sumably inscrutable reason, to Bartok. It was well danced and handsomely designed by Yolanda Son-nabend, The Japanese theater tourist trip-Mr. MacMillan should go and have a look at "Pacific Overtures." That may not be right, but

This Royal Ballet triple bill opened with Rudolf Nureyev's staging of the Shades scene from Petipa's "La Bayadère." On Tuesday night the leading roles were exultantly given by Merie Park and particular-Mr. Dowell, who is simply flying nowadays. Yesterday afternoon we had Jannifer Penny and Michael Coleman, who were not so good. Miss Penny is a dancer of a certain indifference, and Mr. Coleman is oot dancing in this role with the vigor he once had. He used to do the traditional five double assembles absolutely perfectly. He now does three with dif-ficulty, and might with advantage adopt the simpler code that Mr. Nureyev and

There was the memorable bleak expression of Jean Dixon, as the wife, when she first surveyed the rundown premises and her remark a few moments later; "Apparently George Washington never bad to go to the bathroom." It also turns out that the first President hadn't roosted upstairs—it was Benedict Arnold.

Starting tonight, the sel-dom-revived comedy is being performed Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 and Sunday at 3 (no show on May 8) in the Bicentennial series of American revivals by the Playwrights Horizons company at the Queens Theater in the Park, Flushing Mead-ows. The first and most magnificent thing in it is the performance of Robert Balaban as Yossarian. Mr. Balaban, a drenched water rat, manages ail of Yossarian's rage, cun-ning and energy. But what transforms him from first-rate to wonderful is that inside this small angry buzz saw, a very large heart is continu-ally breaking.

He yearns. All bead—like a bearded egg—and boots, he protrudes from both ends of a blanket in a desperate yearning to he taken for sick and avoid flying another mission. He yearns for $20 so he can have a prostitute. yearns for Nurse Duckett as he sits with her on an upended box and discusses the nature of the God he doesn't believe in. He changes size. As his war-crazed commander, Colonel Cathcart, raises the num-ber of missions that must be flown before going home, Mr. Balaban gets smaller. There are moments when he isn't gning anywhere but that's when the play isn't either.

when the play isn't either.

There are other good performances: George Martin as the timid and incompetent Chaplain, who is the only character in the play who does, in fact, change; Louis Turenne as a hilarious hypochondriac doctor, and Barbara Sieck, as Nurse Duckett, who manages moments of whn manages moments of yearning almost equaling those of Mr. Balaban. The set, designed by Akita Yoshimura, is an assemblage of flasbing lights and buzzers that creates a visual insanity appropriate to the theme. It appropriate to the theme. It also restores a unity of tone that is often dispersed in the feebler acting by some other members of the cast, and the company's general lack of the skill and physical discipline required for the play's visual clanetick. visual slapstick. These are weaknesses. Adding to those of the play they tend to overaccentuate the farce and underaccentuate the horror. One can imagine a generation of college productions of "Catch" as the "Charley's Aunt" of the 70s. They won't have Mr.

Julies Harris Portrays Emily Dickinson

At 14, Emily Dickinson wrote to a school friend: "I expect I shall be the belle of Amherst when I reach my 17th year. I don't doubt that I shall have perfect crowds of admirers at that age." She was not "the Belle of Amherst," the ironic title of the one-woman play that Julie Harris brought to the Longacre Theater last night. Instead, she became, as Miss Harris observes, "Squire Harris observes, "Squire Dickinson's half cracked

But Emily was not increly an eccentric. She was a great poet who lived an interior life of extreme passion, who never stopped studying nature and man and expressing her emotions in lovely bursts of poetry.

stage in William Luce's new play, filtered and intermin-gled with letters and recreated conversations. The first thing to note about "The Belle of Amherst—beside the fact that it gives Miss Harris a chance to ful-fill an actress's dream of being a play as well as a character—is that it is an act of the imagination, for a very

Emily Dickinson is the op-posite of Mark Twain. Twain was a public performer, and Hal Holbrook is his impersonator. Henry Fonda's "Clarence Darrow," the previous one-man show brought to town by the producers of "The Belle of Amherst" and a natural drama; there was material enough for a season

On the other hand, Emily Dickinson was an inmost pri-vate person who rarely re-vealed herself, except in her poetry, and occasionally in a letter. For most of her life she was a virtual recluse, living in a world limited by her father's house (evocatively recreated in H. R. Poindexter's scenery: desk, piano, bed, all floating in an open space) and by her father, a strong-minded puritan.

During her lifetime she published only seven poems, all of them anonymously. After her death, 1,775 poems were discovered in her room in tight little packets. Over the years her reputation has

Despite numerous biographies, her life remains some-thing of a mystery. Where her romances in her mind-or in fact? As her recent biographer Richard B. Sewall, writes, "The whole truth about Emily Dickinson will elude us always; she seems almost willfully to have seen.

Rather than present simply a staged reading of her verse, Mr. Luce and Miss Harris together with Charles Nelson Reilly as director) have attempted a dramatic interpretation. One can question the interpretation, but the rea-sons behind it are under-

It is the play's view that Miss Dickinson was a self-created; she made her own myth, nurtured her own image. She was a role-player, an actress_an actress such as Julie Harris. At times there is an awk-wardness in this posture. There is a bit too much of the bustle around the Dickinson home. Here comes fatheri Where's his newspaper? Chase away the cat! All this is extraneous, supposedly atmospheric, detail. The effort to make things dramatic shows-and we are

On the other hand, the au-thor and the actress have used the poetry to great ad-vantage. The character leaps into verse when the emotion carries her there, Miss Harris—dressed in "bridal white," her hair neatly parted and tied in a tight bun—speaks the poetry with conviction and urgency. She is at her most moving when she is acting the poetry; she makes us see the enormous passion that went into the art.

At times the poetry merges with character and perform-ance. And when Miss Harris confesses, "The heart wants what it wants, or else it does not care," she weeps. We see the sadness—and the strange fulfillment-of the life, of the stunted love that found release in art. In her life, Miss Dickinson clearly demonstrated ber own words, "Remunciation—is a piercing

Steinberg Takes Leave With Berlioz 'Romeo'

By DONAL HENAHAN

William Steinberg's final New York concert as music director of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, which he has headed since 1952, made for a sentimental leavetaking last night at Carnegie Hall. The 76-year-old conductor, who has resigned his post to become Pittsburgh's music director emeritus, effective this fall, chose a grand-style farewell: Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," in one of that masterly work's rarely heard complete performances.

There has long been an argument among Berioz enthusiasts about this piece. The composer subtitled it a "dramatic symphony," and the score is laid out in four desired defined movements. clearly defined movements. clearly defined movements. Some conductors, however, ignore that idea and approach "Romeo" as if it were a series of loosely connected numbers or perhaps a quasi-opera of the sort Berlioz wrote in "The Damnation of Faust." Mr. Steinberg evidently is of the school that sees little merit in the sym-cert, in fact, ambied along without much tension or feeling of propulsion. Mr. Steinberg's version broke for intermission after the or mitermission after the Queen Mab Scherzo, which in the score is placed at the beginning of Part Four, obviously to tailor the work to a conventional concert format. But such tinkering would be easy to overlook in a genuinely vital and poetically evocative perform-ance. Instead, Mr. Steinberg, had Queen Mab chugging along at a pace well below the metronome marking sucthe metronome marking suggested in the score, and most of the keenly anticipated moments of the score were simply given a similarly dry

Mr. Steinberg, whose illness of several years ago seems to have left him seriously enervated, gave less than their due to the lightfooted and brilliant portions of "Romeo." Ambassador Who Plays the Piano Uses Music for Diplom

By LINDA CHARLTON pedal to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 28-Adrian Meisch, as he would probably be the first to admit, is a lucky man. Next to diplomacy, he loves music—or the other way around—and as Ambassador from Luxembourg he will serve as a kind of musical bicentennial gift from his country to the United States. This fall he will accompany a Luxembourg baritone in a series of lieder recitals around the

Still, a gleaming black Bösendorfer grand, with the piano part of a Brahms quin-tet on its music rack, occu-ples pride of place in the drawing room of the Chan-tantness of line would have been helpful.

With the interpretive botto-daries thus set out, the listen-er could take a good deal of pleasure in the moodier pages after intermission. Beginning with Juliet's funeral procession, Mr. Steinberg and the Westminster Choir painted consistently affecting scenes, and with the appearance of Ara Berberian as Friar Laurence a note of real Berliozian dramatic melancholy was sounded. Mr. Ber-berian's dry and nasal bassbaritone voice sometimes ob-scured the pitch, but his in-tensity and ability to project the emotional shades of the text were a definite asset to the evening. The other vocal soloists, Joy Davidson and Gene Bullard, carried out their assignments adequately, though neither seemed perfectly cast.

In the stupendous choral finale, Mr. Steinberg and the Westminster Choir pushed aside all one's earlier reservations and objections. It was a splendid way for William. Steinberg to say "till we meet again" to his New York

This version, directed by Otto Schenk, has a rather good cast playing the daisy chain of lovers in a lustful, though not very lusty Vienna at the turn of the century. Whatever virtues the film may once have possessed are obscured by one of the tackiest English dubbing jobs I've heard since Roger Corman and Max Youngstein gave us the once-Japanese "Tidal Wave." The characters us the once-Japanese

Even with a decent sound-track, though, Schnitzler's caustic wit would probably have been lost in the style that Mr. Schenk has chosen to film his adaptation. The emphasis throughout is on the barrier to sexual inter-course provided not by society but by things like corsets, petticoats and button shoes, which is not, I think,

The Bosendorfer, a littleknown make of piano in the United States but one that than Steinway for chamber music because it is "more re-fined" in its tone, was picked out for Mr. Meisch in Vienna two years ago by Sviatoslav Richter, the Russian virtuoso. But, in Mr. Meisch's home in northwest Washington, 10 minutes away from the Embassy, there is a Steinway concert grand.

Mr. Meisch has found that music and diplomacy not only mix but also often enhance each other. In the Soviet Union, where he spent four years as Ambassador befour years as Ambassador be-fore coming to Washington in November 1974, he played with the late violinist David Oistrakh, with Matisiav Ros-tropovich, the cellist, with the Chamber Orchestra of Moscow and with other top-lish conjet artists often at flight soviet artists, often at concerts in the Embassy but sometimes on the concert

WASHINGTON, April 28—
The Securities and Exchange
Commission annunced today that it was considering elimina-tion of its short-sale rules, designed to prevent exaggerated declines in stock prices.

These rules, written in the 1930's to prevent manipulative practices to drive down prices, generally prohibit the sale of borrowed stock at a price Inwer

FIRST Quality corporate bonds offer a natural refuge for the small investor and can at MANHATTAN times, provide a better return greater safety than most alternatives. Yet many potential customers for these debt securities are put off by a lack of knowledge about them and, in some cases, by a misplaced desire to make a fortune in the stock market.

time in the stock market.

The obvious individual customer for quality corporate issues is someone in a relatively lnw tax bracket—those in federal brackets of 40 percent or higher should consider the tax-exempt advantage of municipal bonds.

Many petitiess might eladly

Many retirees might gladly buy corporate boods issued by say, the American Tele-phooe and Telegraph Company and its subsidiaries at cur-rent yields of 814 to 81/2 rent yields of 814 to 81/2 percent hut have oever determined just how to approach the situation. Bonds of other leading utilities are equally attractive, as are the bonds of leading industrial companies, assuming they are double-A rated by Standard & Boor's or Monda's or both. & Poor's or Moody's or both.

There are several ways m which the relatively unso-phisticated individual can protect himself in the bond market, according to Frank Henjes, a 20-year veteran of the corporate and municipal bond business who will begin doing business under his nwn name on Wall Street next

He believes the individual should buy oew bonds of a company he is familiar with as part of an issue of at least $50 million that is to be listed on the New York Stock

He said that the individual investor wanted peace of mind and that, therefore, a resident of North Carolina, for example would probably be more comfortable with bonds of that state's Duke Power Company, with a resideot of Richmond more at ease with bonds of Virginia Electric and Power.

Io buying new bonds, the individual buys "net"—that is, without commission — since the underwriter is compensated directly by the cnm-pany for distribution the

"Why pay a commission when you don't have to?" Mr. Henjes asked, nnting that oew, quality bonds were being sold all the time so that one oeed oot wait more than a week or so to participate in a new issue to his liking.

If the bond is part of an issue of at least $50 million, the individual can count on a reasonably brisk aftermarket, particularly so if the bond is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The individual, in Mr. Henjes's view, definitely should not buy bonds that are not gning to be listed on the Big Board because be will then be faced with a professional market in which bundreds of thousands of dollars worth of bonds are sold at a clip.

With bonds unlisted on the Big Board, the lovestor will take a beating if he must sell five nr 10 bonds-if be Is able to sell them at all. Further, be will have no frame of reference as to whether the price be gets on a sale is reasonable. By contrast, the individual whn nwns bonds that are traded on the Big Board will discover that issues of the caliber and size Mr. Henjes prefers will trade every week and the price at which they trade will appear in newspa-pers. The individual will be able to tell what he can expect nn resale from week to

In any case, the broker handling a small trade for an individual — whether the Individual is buying or seiling -will charge a commission of from $5 to $10 per bond. Maturity can be an impor-tant consideration. Those who feel they may have to sell their bonds in the fore-seeable future should limit purchases to bonds within 7 to 10 years to maturity, Mr.

Henjes feels. Bonds rise and fall in price to reflect changes in general interest levels. A bond pur-chased for high yield will drop in price if interest rates rise. The risks are less for shurter hunds.

On the other hand, Mr. Henjes believes ton many hond purchasers hesitate when the bond has a maturity beyond their expected life spao. "He can buy bonds of the same company and same quality and obtain a greater yield if he buys longer boods."

Personal Finance: Banks and Overdraft Checking

By LEONARD SLOANE A check may be written for more than the bank bal-ance—without making an error or intentionally over-drawing the account. In fact, this has been done regularly for many years through a service offered by commer-cial banks called overdraft checking. Overdraft checking is a tool used by banks to allow customers to write their personal loans without filling out a new application each time. Consumers who are authorized by their banks to use overdraft checking have the right to write checks for more than they have in their accounts—and the obligation to pay interest on the addi-

Each bank usually bas its own name to identify this service. The Marine Midland Bank calls it Lina of Credit, thereby indicating its simila-rity with business line-of-cret arrangements. The Manofacturers Hanover Trust Company has two names: Worry Free Checking for its regular overdraft checking and Common Credit for the kind linked with its creditcard operation.

Regardless of the bank, overdraft checking requires completing a single application form requesting the service, and at some banks, the amount. Otherwise, checks writteo for more than the balance to the account will simply "bounce," or be returned for insufficient funds.

would cormally go into effect for those who have it as soon as the account was overdrawn by as little as a dollar, some banks allow a little leeway before the loan is automatically triggered: Soma allow $5 or $10, while other banks are vague as to the

For instance, the European American Bank and Trust Company leaves the level to the discretion of the branch manager, while the Bankers Trust Company will oot pub-licly state its formula. The amount of money that can be borrowed through overdraft checking is another factor that should be taken into consideration. Since overdraft checking is a form of revolving credit, the total in New York is limited by banking law to $10,000—although naturally banks will oot go that high for all of their customers.

Another major considera-tion is the minimum amount of the dollar advance to the customer. Some plans, such as that of the Chemical Bank, offer these loans only in multiples of $100, so that an overdraft of $25 is recorded as a $100 loan. Others, such as Citibank, are for the actual overdraft itself.

Then there is the matter of how the overdraft loans are repaid. All banks require a monthly payment of at least a minimum amountsay, $10-or a percentage of

Since overdraft checking the principal outstanding-rould cormally go into effect say one twentieth or one thirty-sixth.

Some banks, however, such as the Chase Manhattan Bank, immediately apply any deposit made in the checking account to offset any overdraft loan balance. Others use what is sometimes called the European method, whereby two balances are maintained and recorded on the monthly statement separate-

At those banks, bills are usually issued moothly and payments must be made ac-cordingly to work off the loan, regardless of the amount deposited in checking account after the overdraft was made. Of course, the entire amount may be repaid at any time.

Interest rates on overdraft checking normally tie in with the maximum permitted by state law. In New York, banks generally charge an annual percentage rate of 12 percent, with some banks in-cluding credit life insurance at that rate and others ad-ding an extra fee.

While bankers indicate that overdraft checking is not currently sd popular a service as many other offered, changes have been suggested to broaden its usage. Last month, the Federal Reserve Board proposed that its memtransfer funds in $100 multiples from a customer's savings account, at the customer's option, to a checking account to cover an over-its proposal, which called for comments through May 14, depositors would have to forfeit at least 30 days interest on the transferred funds. Also iocluded in this overdraft-protection proposal is permission for a transfer from the savings account to the bank itself in case of an overdraft.

Furthermore limited overdraft checking for savings banks is included in the bill how under consideration by the New York State Legisla-ture to grant checking-ac-count privileges to the thrift institutions. This bill is es-sentially a proposal out forsentially a proposal put forward recently by the State Superintendent of Banks,

The Treasury's reduced appetite for cash and the apparent reduction in the budget deficit—the two are not always arithmetically identical—were disclosed by Edwin H. Yeo, the Treasury's Uoder Secretary for Monetary Affairs, in announcing the new issues.

He estimated that in the first six months of calendar 1976 the Treasury would take between $31 billion and $35 billion of oew cash out of the capital market, several billion dollars less than the $35-$40 billion es-reasury has reduced up to $12 billion its earlier target for a fiscal year-end June 30 cash balance of $9 billion. Other officials said that the Treasury was not so much anticipating its sumer-autumn cash needs as trying to achieve, a more normal, workable cash position. Fiery Sales in Smoke Detectors

The home smoke detector seems destined to become one of the heavily promoted electric appliances. What electric appliances. What would seem to make its fu-ture assured is the increasing number of state, county and nunicipal governments that have passed legislation requiring such equipment in all new private housing.

Another factor certain to put a fire under the consumer is that major marketing companies are partiting into a companies are getting into a field once dominated by small manufacturers. And the prices are coming down. Charles S. Rhudy, manager of public relations for the Housewares and Audio Division of General Electric, says that 1.6 million units with a wholesale value of $36 million were sold last year and gave the estimate of sales of 3.6 million units worth $87 million at wholesale for 1976. And he is projecting as many as eight million a year by 1980. The new coffee makers, currently tha hottest appliance around, are selling about 10 million units a year.

Last September G.E.'s Home Scotry Smoke Alarm became tha first such pro-duct to be advertised on network television. Now, in re-cent weeks Norelco and Gil-lette have announced they will start advertising their own entries in the fall.

The Norelco consumer products division has signed Danny Thomas, who pre-viously pushed its coffee maker, to promote its Norelco Smokey. McCaffrey & Mc-Call is the agency. Richard Q. Kress, president of the division, is extremely optimistic about the future of Smokey noting that few homes are now equipped with a smoke detection de-vice, and that each might use two or three. Mr. Rhudy of G.E. said his company estimates that there are an estimated 47 million single-family homes. In addi-tion multiple dwellings and mobile homes are potential targets. G.E. spent over $1 million for advertising through Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn during the last half of 1975 to reach that

Benton & Bowles Sold on Gift Idea

It all started with a Christ-mas gift Hillary Vermont, an assistant art director at Benton & Bowles, gave to her boss Alvin Hampel, executive vice president and director of creative services. She took his favorite slogan "It's not creative unless it sells" and baked it for the ages. That'a right, baked it like an unruly

THE ROAD CAR.

Above: The Seeb EMS. Standard equipment includes new front spoiler, special shock absorbers, low-profile Pirelli steel-betted radial tires, die-cast aluminum alloy wheels, tachometer, and a specially designed Interior. Available only in Sterling Silver Metallic or black.

There's only one way to find out how good a road car really is. Drive it.

That way you can find out for yourself if the car is as good as it should be.

With a Saab you'll discover it can handle anything the road puts in front of it. Hills. Curves. Or wide apen spaces.

you some new angles on comering. You'll be pulled, instead of pushed, through every curve. So you'll really feel the road. And the car will hold the road in even the strongest cross winds. The rack-and-pinion steering will show you how a car can go in exactly the direction you want it to. When you want it to.

overhead cam engine will give you . the kind of performance you'd only expect from a sports car. But to really appreciate a Saab, you have to drive one. So we invite you to do just that. And see what a real road car is like.

The front-wheel drive will give And the fuel-injected, 2-liter

Who will see your advertising in the fall advertising in the Times Fashions of The Times

"I look in The Times Magazine to see who advertises, what lines are advertised. If I see a garment I've got, I pass it on to other buyers and salespeople. If I see a garment I didn't purchase, I call that vendor and sometimes ask why I didn't see that item. And if I like it well enough, I'll buy that particular line of merchandise."

The New School for Social Research announced yesterday that its annual Florello H. LaGuardia Awards will go to three figures thrust into public roles by the city's fiscal crisis. They are Felix G. Rohatyn, chairman of the Municipal Assistance Corporation; William K. Ellinghaus, member of the Emergency Fi-nancial Control Board, and Richard Ravitch, chairman of the state Urban Development Corporation. The LaGuardia awards are bronze statuettes of the former Mayor, presented by the school'a Center for New York City Affairs.

Asked yesterday if the choices might not have dis-turbed the Little Flower, Dean Henry Cohen of the center conceded that "any loss of autonomy would have bothered him." But considering 'today's expanded scale of local government" and the parallel "desperate fiscal si-tuation" of the Depression and the more recent recession, Dean Cohen said, 'I think be would have applauded decisive action." Toast-master for the May 10 award dinner will be Chevy Chase of the NBC-TV "Saturday Night Show," a son of Edward T. Chase, an editor at G. P. Putnam's Sons and a board member of the center.

Pope Paul VI had some thoughts for Madison Avenue and, in fact, the economy in general when members of the European Association of Advertising Agencies were in his weekly audience yesterday. The coosumer, His Hobness said, should not have "bis hierarchy of values distorted" by advertising or be "titillated in his baser teo-deocies" or "oriented toward oeeds that he cannot or should not satisfy."

Weather Reports and Forecast

Summary

Skies will be partly cloudy today over most of New England, and mostly sunny across southern New England and Metropolitan New York. It will be warmer in the Northeast, mild in Flor-ida, the Gulf States and coastal areas of the Pacific Northwest; cool wether will prevail elsewhere. Showers will be scattered from the Northern Plains States and eastern edges of the Ceotral Plains States through the middle Mississippi Valley into Louisiana and central Texas. Showers—with snow at higher elevations—will be widely scattered across Montana. Except for sunshine in the desert Southwest, it will be fair to partly cloudy else-

Yesterday skies were fair to partly cloudy over the Northeast, and clear over the rest of the eastern third of the country; it was cool in the North and Middle Atlantic States. Clouds covered the western Plains States. Showers spread from ceotral lissouri and northwestern Arkansas into southeastern Texas, while thundershowers were reported in south-ern Oklahoma and north-western Texas. Light rain and drizzle fell over Nebraska and most of Kansas. Except for snow in the Black Hills of South Dakota and the western mountains of Wyoming and Montana, skies were generally fair elsewhere.

'Dying,' a Documentary With Four Portraits

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR

Last night un public tele-vision, the subject of death was dealt with artistically in Edward Albee's play "All Edward Albee's play "All Over." Tonight, the protec-tive hospital screen is removed from in front of the patient, und death is confronted directly in an extraordinary documentary called "Dying." The 97-minute program was produced by Michael Rohmer for sta-tion WGBH in Boston.

Except for a brief com-mentary by Maynard Mack, a consultant for the project, "Dying" centers exclusively on people who are either dying or trying to deal with another person's dying. There is no narrator, no special mu-sic track, no frills. There is also no easy or ohvious exploitation of the subject. Professor Mack explains that the purpose is to hring death out of the "deep freeze of sileoce up into the living room" and perhaps gain an insight into dying.

The documentay contains four portraits, each concerned with a death from cancer. In the first, o monologue spoken directly into the camera, a woman recalls being most angry when she was not told immediately that her 29-yearold husbands disease was probably fatal. She finally de-cided to share the knowledge of the fact with her husband and discovered that, "for a change, the truth did set us

The three other essays are close-nps of the dying them-selves and their families, who allowed firm crews to enter their private and painful worlds. One woman, once a vigorons and "big healthy redhead" is returned from the hospital to her mother's home, where the two spend her last days listening to classical music and being incredibly kind to each other,

In the next family, it is the young husband who is dying, but without the benefit of much family comfort. His wife is frankly and openly embittered by the experience. She is worried by the possi-bility of being left alone with two teen-age boys to rear. She is impatient: "Why can't be be quick and get it over with?" She is both a repulsive and a painfully sympathetic. creature.

And, finally, there is the black minister, a man of tow-ering dignity. "There's only one thing a man can do." he decides, "put his trust in.. God." Surrounded at home by the presence and love of his wife and children and grand-children, he declares: "I can say right now that I'm living some of the greatest moments in life. I'm the most happiest man on earth." His tradi-tional funeral, with open corfin, provides an unforgettable occcasion for intense sadness and rejoicing.

Death appears to be curiously popular these days, the subject of everything from books and essays to well-attended seminars on thanotology. There is, of course, in this renewed interest the danger of slipping into easy titil-lation. Mr. Rohmer's documentary avoids this danger entirely. "Dying" is consid-erate and intelligent, insightful and almost unbearably moving. Television has rarely been used to more impressive advantage.

What is the most wonderful thing a man can say to a girl? I love you, of course, but I mean when you're not in quite that deep? Well, he can say you're beautiful, sexy, smart...all those compliments are terrific but the one comment that really shatters me - in the nicest way - is to be told that I'm different, that he's never met anybody like me and never expects to! What girl wouldn't respond to that? My favorite magazine says compliments and appreciation are almost as important as being held close - and they think being held close is very important, too. I know they're different. I love that magazine. I guess you could say I'm That COSMOPOLITAN Girl.

If you want to reach me you'll find me reading COSMOPOLITAN°
